ALL COUNTRY FOLKS INVITED FOR GOOD TIME

Lively Time Is Planned For Visitors Here Saturday. With Many Stunts

BAND CONCERTS ALSO

Automobile Driving Contest Expected to Be One of Features of the Day

Saturday is Girl's Day in Bismarck.

"Everybody in Bismarck wants everybody from the country to be sure and come to town on Saturday, the 26th," says F. E. Young, president of the Bismarck Advertising Club, sponsoring the event.

"Especially should the girls and young ladies be in town for the special entertainment which will be provided for them. There will be interesting things on the streets for everyone as well as free movie shows and a splendid concert by St. Mary's band of 25 to 30 pieces, one of the best young folk bands in the Northwest."

The Business and Professional Women's Club will entertain the visiting young ladies. Their club rooms at Sixth and Rosser will be open to the visitors. J. J. MacLeod, in charge of young folks work in the city, will have charge of the games and contests among the young women and girls on Girl's Day. He has an interesting program.

One reason Bismarck is inviting all the country folks to the town is so that all may forget their troubles for a day, and have a good time.

Pool Is Open

The city is throwing open the swimming pool to all young folks from the country for the afternoon. There will be no charge of any kind to anyone from the country. The city has about 75 suits on hand, not enough to go around to everyone who will want to swim all afternoon and very likely the youngsters will have to go in relays but the committee will see to it that everyone who wants to go in can do so.

There will be a clown's band of several pieces on the streets all afternoon to liven things up. And at 4:30 the automobile driving stunts will be pulled off at the Post Office. This will give the ladies from the country an opportunity to show how they can drive. It will be about the same practice as is given the artillery drivers in the Army when they are being tested for that branch of the service. Girls will have to drive their cars between sticks set up on the pavement and the lady or girl who makes the best time and knocks down the fewest sticks will get the prize.

And don't let the girls forget to bring in their bread and cake and butter and cottage cheese or their embroidery and tatting and crocheting or aprons and house dresses to be entered for the prizes.

There will also be a pavement dance in the evening, the music to be furnished by the Wildwood orchestra. The dance will be held on Third street between Main and Broadway as the pavement in that block appears to be in much better condition than in the other down town blocks.

Everybody in Bismarck is urged to be down town Saturday afternoon and evening and to help make this a real gala day.

APPEAL TAKEN FOR EDITOR

High Court in New Mexico to Test Pardon Power

Las Vegas, N. M., July 24.—After more than 36 hours of legal uncertainty and dispute, Carl C. Magee, Albuquerque editor, under sentence here for contempt of court was on his way early today for Santa Fe, where the question of executive authority for pardon in the case of direct contempt is to be threshed out before the state supreme court.

Refusal of Sheriff Lorenzo Delgado of San Miguel county to honor the several pardons issued by Gov. J. F. Hinkle resulted in Magee's attorneys securing a writ of habeas corpus from the state bench.

The Albuquerque editor remained in high spirits and expressed himself as being confident of the outcome of the hearing before the higher court.

He reiterated his intention of continuing his fight to drive from office District Judge Davis J. Leahy, before whom he has been tried and convicted twice within the past year.

The hearing before the state's tribunal is expected to clear up the status of the Governor's pardoning power as well as put to an end the famous battle that has been waged between Magee and the New Mexico court for more than 18 months.

TRESPASS ON STATE LANDS

Land Commissioner Finds 10,340 Acres Used For Crops

Discovery that 10,340 acres of state school land, in 14 counties, was being used illegally was made in an inspection trip through these counties, C. R. Kostitzky, state land commissioner, said today upon his return.

The land being used both for hay and for cultivated crops, he said, in the following counties: Burke, Ward, Renville, Bottineau, Rolette, Towner, Cavalier, Walsh, Ramsey, Nelson, Griggs, Steele, Foster and Pierce.

In each case he said, those trespassing were notified they must pay rent or the state will take possession of the crop. Rental at present rates fixed by the board amounts to about $2,300, he said, adding that in the future he expected the board, by resolution, would order that any person found using state school lands illegally for cropping purposes be required to pay triple the regular rental or give up the crop.

PROCEED WITH PAVING PLAN

Contract Forwarded to the Federal Government

The State Highway Commission has forwarded to the United States Bureau of Roads a contract for paving the Bismarck-Mandan road from the new North Dakota Liberty Memorial Bridge west. There are some unsettled legal questions in connection with the paving of the road somewhat of an uncertainty. The contract will go to the Northern Construction Company of Grand Forks for approximately $42,000, if let.

Under the proposed plan the federal government would pay half, Morton county one-sixth and the state one-third, the state's approximate $30,000 coming from the state bridge fund money derived from motor vehicle license fees. The Attorney General's office has reaffirmed an opinion previously given by the office that the bridge money could not be used without appropriation by the legislature, but the Highway Commission has proceeded with the preliminaries of letting the contract. It may be necessary to test out some phases of the matter in the courts, according to Chief Engineer Black.

The plans do not include the tangent road letting southwest across to the St. Anthony highway, which has been insisted upon by Bismarck business men as a part of the bridge plan, they asserting that it is necessary to have such an approach to give people on the south river road and in the Ft. Yates territory access to the bridge.

STATE PLACES ITS EVIDENCE BEFORE COURT

Goes Into Details Showing How Crime Was Fastened on Leopold and Loeb

CHISEL IS INTRODUCED

Witness Tells of Seeing it Thrown from Automobile Soon After Killing

Chicago, July 24. (By the A. P.)—Continuing the piling up of evidence designed to send Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb to the gallows for the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks, State Attorney George W. Ladd today produced to court the state's exhibit in the chain of evidence for formal identification.

These included the taped cold chisel, used in beating the boy to death; the charred remains of the blood-stained automobile robe rescued from the ashes of the bon-fire on the lake front; a portable typewriter similar to that on which was written the ransom letter written to Frank's father and paper and envelopes identified as the same texture as that sold to Leopold shortly before the disappearance of their victim.

Introduced also by the state was a pint bottle identified by the drug clerk as the one in which he had sold hydrochloric acid to Leopold on the day of the murder.

Throughout the morning session, during which more than 15 witnesses were called, the young college students sat composedly behind their attorneys listening and occasionally speaking to their attorneys.

Chicago, July 24.—The heavily taped chisel with which the life of young Robert Franks was beaten out was introduced today in evidence in the advisory hearing before Chief Justice John R. Caverly, which is to fix the penalty of Nathan Leopold Jr. and his companion, Richard Loeb, who confessed the slaying.

Bernard Hunt, a neighborhood watchman, told of seeing the chisel tossed from a passing automobile about 1:30 o'clock in the morning of May 22, a few hours after the slaying of young Franks.

"There was fresh blood on the chisel when I picked it up," said Hunt. The relic was given to the court.

Hunt said that a "maroon car with red disk wheels and bright metal headlights" passed him as he was standing at Forty-ninth street and Greenwood avenue.

"What happened?" asked Mr. Crowe.

"As the car slowed for the turn, a man in the rear seat raised up and threw out the chisel."

"What did you do?"

"I walked over to where the chisel landed and picked it up. It was a cold chisel wrapped in tape. It had freshly dried blood on it."

Hunt was not cross-examined.

Maid on Stand

Elizabeth Sathell, second maid in the home of Nathan Leopold Sr. identified on the witness stand a portable typewriter which she said "resembled" a machine she had seen in the room of her employer's son.

She added that she had seen Nathan Jr. use such a machine "many times."

It was on this kind of a machine that the ransom letters were typed. She was questioned also about the storing place of the automobile robe in the Leopold home.

"A fuzzy, greenish and badly charred robe, said by the state to have been the remnants of the blood-stained robe which the two boys attempted to destroy by soaking it in gasoline and burning it on the lake front was offered in evidence. The witness said she had seen a similar robe in the Leopold home."

She was cross-examined briefly by the defense counsel.

Students Called

Four University of Chicago students, classmates of Leopold, in the law school were called to tell what they knew about the typewriter.

The best they could do was to say that the machines they saw at the Leopold home were portables.

The portable offered in evidence by the state was the one grappled from the bottom of a lake lagoon after the confessions of the two youths.

As a part of their plans to conceal the crime, the state pointed out yesterday, Loeb had drawn the letters from the machine with pliers and had strewn them in the lagoon. The main part of the machine was tossed into another part of the lagoon.

FAIR APPROPRIATION LOSSES

Mohall, N. D., July 24.—Because objections outnumbered favorable recommendations, the Renville county commission rejected a proposal to provide an appropriation for a county fair. The board, however, voted to provide an appropriation for use in preparing a display booth at the annual Northwest fair in Minot in 1925.

EVE OF HARVEST FINDS PROSPECTS GOOD THROUGHOUT 4 NORTHWESTERN STATES, A SURVEY MADE REVEALS

St. Paul, July 24. (By the A. P.)

On the eve of harvest farm crops in the four Northwestern states—Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana—promise "good yields" despite a backward season, according to an official survey published today by three Minneapolis and St. Paul newspapers.

"There are only a few reports of black rust in the four states, and only a few traces of red rust on the wheat stems have been reported," the report says. "In almost all sections of the Dakotas there is ample moisture to carry the crops to maturity."

The report, published in the St. Paul Dispatch, the Minneapolis Tribune and the Minneapolis Journal, declares the cutting of rye and oats already has started in Minnesota and South Dakota and the wheat harvest will start "within two weeks."

Retarded by backward spring and early summer weather, the Minnesota's corn crop, the state's major product of the soil—uniformly is reported from one to three weeks behind normal growth "but barring unusually early frost a large crop seems assured."

In North Dakota "where wheat is the main reliance of the farmers most of the state is talking of 'bumper crops' and the grain generally has reached a point in development where only extremely adverse weather conditions can prevent yields running as high as three to one over last year," the report declares.

South Dakota reports "indicate a small grain yield, better than average is in prospect, except in far western counties where drought has taken its toll in some sections," the newspaper account says.

Montana's "dry farming crops," the report continues, "are not quite up to average and in some districts are poor, but the irrigated tracts show promise of normal yields with harvest already starting."

CHICAGO HIT BY HEAT WAVE

Chicago, July 24.—Relief is promised today from the heat which prevailed here for three days, resulting in several deaths from drowning or sunstroke and numerous prostrations. One was drowned, six prostrated and 30 bitten by heat-crazed dogs yesterday.

RYE HARVEST WILL START IN N. D. THIS WEEK

To Become General Next Week, Report From Various Parts of State

Fargo, July 24.—Rye harvest will be started in a few scattered instances in North Dakota this week and will be general next week, while the wheat harvest will begin in two weeks and become general in three weeks, with the prospect of one of the best small grain crops ever produced, the Fargo Forum declares today after an extensive survey of conditions in the state.

Not since 1915 when North Dakota produced almost 150,000,000 bushels of wheat, its greatest crop, has the state had such generally good prospects, two weeks before the first cutting of wheat, as it has today, the newspaper survey reports.

Reports from all regions of the state, with but one or two exceptions in the south central part along the South Dakota border where more rain is needed, are all said to point to a "bumper" crop.

Whatever damage may result from dust, which has made its appearance in certain sections of the state, officials of the North Dakota Agricultural College are quoted as saying will be made up in the subsequent rise in the price of wheat.

DEADLOCK IN ALLIED PARLEY IS UNSETTLED

Great Hopes Placed on Appearance of Two U. S. Cabinet Officers

SEEKING A WAY OUT

Safe-Guarding of German Loan for Investors Continues Stumbling Block

London, July 24. (By the A. P.)—The conflict in view between the French delegates to the inter-allied conference and the American and British financiers regarding safeguards for investors in the German loan proposed under the Dawes plan, remained unreconciled today, according to well informed persons.

Formal and informal meetings of the delegates produced no indication of a way out of the impasse.

The principal meeting was at Downing street, where Premier Herriot of France, Premier Theunis of Belgium, American Ambassador Kellogg and Italian Finance Minister De Stefani had a two-hours conversation with Prime Minister MacDonald.

The greatest significance is being attached to the comings and goings of Secretary of State Hughes and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon of the United States who are having a most difficult task in convincing London that their mission here is unofficial. Such high hopes were raised at the outset by the participation of the United States, that observers are hopeful that the two American cabinet members can still find a way despite the unofficial character of their good offices, to solve the deadlock between financiers and delegates.

PROCEED WITH PAVING PLAN

Contract Forwarded to the Federal Government

The State Highway Commission has forwarded to the United States Bureau of Roads, a contract for paving the Bismarck-Mandan road from the new North Dakota Liberty Memorial Bridge west. There are some unsettled legal questions in connection which makes the paving of the road somewhat of an uncertainty. The contract will go to the Northern Construction Company of Grand Forks for approximately $62,000, if let.

Under the proposed plan the federal government would pay half, Morton county one-sixth and the state one-third, the state's approximate $30,000 coming from the state bridge fund license fees. The Attorney-General's office has reaffirmed an opinion previously given by the office that the bridge money could not be used without appropriation by the legislature, but the Highway Commission has proceeded with the preliminaries of letting the contract. It may be necessary to test out some phases of the matter in the courts, according to Chief Engineer Black.

The plans do not include the tangent road letting southwest across to St. Anthony highway, which has been insisted upon by Bismarck business men as a part of the bridge plan, they asserting that it is necessary to have such an approach to give people on the south river road and in the Ft. Yates territory access to the bridge.

I.O.O.F. CORNER STONE LAID

Elaborate Ceremonies Being Held at Devils Lake

Devils Lake, N. D., July 24.—Elaborate preparations have been made for the laying of the cornerstone of the new state home for the aged Odd Fellows and dependent children, which is under construction on the east end of the city.

A. A. Dinsdale of Dickinson, grand master of the Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F. has arrived in the city, and together with B. A. Fahs, grand secretary, whose permanent headquarters are in the city, has made plans for the ceremony, which will usher in a new era in Odd Fellowship in North Dakota.

It is planned to hold a parade, starting from Odd Fellows hall, Kelly avenue, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in which will march the grand officers, members of the Rebekah assembly, led by Kate M. Robertson of Ellendale, the president. The parade will end at the new home on Stanton avenue, and music will be furnished by the Governor's Concert band of this city.

The cornerstone will be laid by Grand Master Dinsdale, to be followed by an address by Hon. A. G. Burr of Rugby, judge of the district court, late this afternoon.

STATE PLACES ITS EVIDENCE BEFORE COURT

Goes Into Details Showing
How Crime Was Fastened
on Leopold and Loeb

CHISEL IS INTRODUCED

Witness Tells of Seeing it
Thrown from Automobile
Soon After Killing

Chicago, July 24. (By the A. P.)—Continuing the piling up of evidence designed to send Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb to the gallows for the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks, States Attorney Crowe today produced in court the state's exhibit to the chain of evidence for formal identification.

These included the taped cold chisel, used in beating the boy to death; the charred remains of the blood-stained automobile robe rescued from the ashes of the bon-fire on the lake front; a portable typewriter similar to that on which was written the ransom letter written to Frank's father, and paper and envelopes identified as the same texture as that sold to Leopold shortly before the disappearance of their victim.

Introduced also by the state was a pint bottle identified by the drug clerk as the one in which he had sold hydro-chloric acid to Leopold on the day of the murder.

Throughout the morning session, during which more than 15 witnesses were called, the young college students sat composedly behind their attorneys listening and occasionally speaking to their attorneys.

Chicago, July 24.—The heavily taped chisel with which the life of young Robert Franks was beaten out was introduced today in evidence in the advisory hearing before Chief Justice John R. Caverly, which is to fix the penalty of Nathan Leopold Jr. and his companion, Richard Loeb, who confessed the slaying.

Bernard Hunt, a neighborhood watchman, told of seeing the chisel tossed from a passing automobile about 1:30 o'clock in the morning of May 22, a few hours after the slaying of young Franks.

"There was fresh blood on the chisel when I picked it up," said Hunt. The relic was given to the court.

Hunt said that a "maroon car with red disk wheels and bright metal headlights" passed him as he was standing at the ninth street and Greenwood avenue.

"What happened?" asked Mr. Crowe.

"As the car slowed for the turn, a man in the rear seat raised up and threw out the chisel."

"What did you do?"

"I looked over to where the chisel landed and picked it up. It was a cold chisel wrapped in tape. It had freshly dried blood on it."

Hunt was not cross-examined.

Maid on Stand
Elizabeth Sattler, second maid in the home of Nathan Leopold Sr. identified on the witness stand a portable typewriter which she said "resembled" a machine she had seen in the room of her employer's son.

She added that she had seen Nathan Jr. use such a machine "many times."

It was on this kind of a machine that the ransom letters were typed. She was questioned also about the storing place of the automobile robe in the Leopold home.

"A fuzzy, greenish and badly charred robe, said by the state to have been the remnants of the blood-stained robe which the two boys attempted to destroy by soaking it in gasoline and burning it on the lake front, was offered on the witness stand."

She was cross-examined briefly by the defense counsel.

Students Called
Four University of Chicago students, classmates of Leopold, in the law school were called to tell what they knew about the typewriter.

The best they could do was to say that the machine they saw at the Leopold home was portable. The portable offered in evidence by the state was the one grappled from the bottom of a lake lagoon after the confessions of the two youths.

FAIR APPROPRIATION LOSES
Mohl, N. D., July 24.—Because objections outnumbered favorable recommendations, the Renville county commission rejected a proposal to provide an appropriation for a county fair. The board, however, voted to provide an appropriation for use in preparing a display booth at the annual Northwest fair in Minot in 1925.

EVE OF HARVEST FINDS PROSPECTS GOOD THROUGHOUT 4 NORTHWESTERN STATES, A SURVEY MADE REVEALS

St. Paul, July 24. (By the A. P.)—On the eve of harvest farm crops in the four Northwestern states—Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana—promise "good yields" despite a backward season, according to an official survey published today by three Minneapolis and St. Paul newspapers.

"There are only a few reports of black rust in the four states, and only a few traces of red rust on the wheat stems have been reported," the report says. "In almost all sections of the Dakotas there is ample moisture to carry the crops to maturity."

The report, published in the St. Paul Dispatch, the Minneapolis Tribune and the Minneapolis Journal, declares the cutting of rye and oats already has started in Minnesota and South Dakota and the wheat harvest will start "within two weeks."

Retarded by backward spring and early summer weather, the Minnesota's corn crop, the state's major product of the soil—uniformly is reported from one to three weeks behind normal growth "but barring unusually early frost a large crop seems assured."

In North Dakota "where wheat is the main reliance of the farmers most of the state is talking of bumper crops and the grain generally has reached a point in development where only extremely adverse weather conditions can prevent yields running as high as three to one over last year," the report declares.

South Dakota reports "indicate a small grain yield, better than average, is in prospect, except in far western counties where drought has taken its toll in some sections," the newspaper account says.

Montana's "dry farming crops," the report continues, "are not quite up to average and in some districts are poor, but the irrigated tracts show promise of normal yields with harvest already starting."

CHICAGO HIT BY HEAT WAVE
Chicago, July 24.—Relief is promised today from the heat which prevailed here for three days, resulting in several deaths from drowning or sunstroke and numerous prostrations. One was drowned, six prostrated and 30 bitten by heat-crazed dogs yesterday.

RYE HARVEST WILL START IN N. D. THIS WEEK

To Become General Next
Week, Report From Various Parts of State

Fargo, July 24.—Rye harvest will be started in a few scattered instances in North Dakota this week and will be general next week, while the wheat harvest will begin in two weeks and become general in three weeks, with the prospect of one of the best small grain crops ever produced, the Fargo Forum declares today after an extensive survey of conditions in the state.

Not since 1915 when North Dakota produced almost 150,000,000 bushels of wheat, its greatest crop, has the state had such generally good prospects two weeks before the first cutting of wheat, as it has today, the newspaper survey reports.

Reports from all regions of the state, with but one or two exceptions in the south central part along the South Dakota border where more rain is needed, all said to point to a "bumper" crop.

"Whatever damage may result from rust, which has made its appearance in certain sections of the state, officials of the North Dakota Agricultural College are quoted as saying will be made up in the subsequent rise in the price of wheat."

Safe-Guarding of German Loan for Investors Continues Stumbling Block

London, July 24. (By the A. P.)—The conflict in view between the French delegates to the inter-allied conference and the American and British financiers regarding safeguards for investors in the German loan proposed under the Dawes plan, remained unrecanted today, according to well informed persons.

Formal and informal meetings of the delegates produced no indication of a way out of the impasse.

The principal meeting was at Downing street, where Premier Herriot of France, Premier Theunis of Belgium, American Ambassador Kellogg and Italian Finance Minister De Stefani had a two-hour conversation with Prime Minister MacDonald.

The greatest significance is being attached to the coming and going of Secretary of State Hughes and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon of the United States who are having a most difficult task in convincing London that their mission here is unofficial. Such high hopes were raised at the outset by the participation of the United States, that observers are hopeful that the two American cabinet members can still find a way despite the unofficial character of their good offices, to solve the deadlock between financiers and delegates.

Donald Richberg, counsel for the representatives, submitted a prepared statement to the board outlining the fore-going decision and also submitted a statement of representatives of employees in engine service on certain western railroads replying to the board's order to appear and testify.

U. S. BANKER IS OPTIMISTIC ON ALLIED PARLEY

Predicts That Dawes Plan Will Be Given a Chance to Solve Economic Ills

POINTS OUT DIFFICULTY

Agreement on Guarantees For Loan and Penalties For Default Necessary

London, July 23. (By the A. P.) The inter-allied conference will undoubtedly be successful and the Dawes plan will be given its chance to solve Europe's economic ills, says a leading American banker today. The banker, who has followed the Dawes plan since its inception, declared there was no question among bankers regarding the existence of guarantees which will insure the comparatively small sum regarded for the service of the loan.

The problem is, he added, to reduce the potential guarantee to definite form which will stand as a solid basis of credit. It will be the conference's task during the next few days to put into writing and reach a complete agreement on some plan of action and defaults as that proposed by American Ambassador Kelllogg yesterday. It is stated that the American banker was not certain that the Kelllogg proposal would prove satisfactory to all of the allies but he said it would be a basis for the conference to work on and from it the final agreement on guarantees would be developed.

The banker characterized the differences which have been delaying the conference as trivial and said there was not the slightest possibility of the allied delegations leaving London without accomplishing their purpose, namely, that of making the Dawes scheme effective.

A. G. DIVET TO FILE ARGUMENT IN BANK CASE

The supreme court today has under consideration the questions involved in the case in which application was made for review of the decision of the Secretary of State Thomas D. Hall that a constitutional amendment on a $100,000,000 bond issue to aid depositors of closed banks, and rewriting the Guaranty Fund law, were insufficient. A decision is not expected for several days. Following the argument, before the court yesterday by William Langer and John Thorpe, the court's assistant attorneys general, the court granted a request of A. G. Divet, former attorney, to file a written argument he said was presented on behalf of several taxpayers, and this is to be filed within three days.

TEA SERVICE OF NAPOLEON ON EXHIBIT

Chicago, July 23. — Napoleon Bonaparte's silver gilt tea service, consisting of 1,618 pieces which he presented to his sister Pauline Borghese, will be exhibited this summer by the Chicago Art Institute. It is a part of the collection of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, who has lent it for exhibition purposes for the first time. The set was made by the Imperial jeweler M. G. Biennais, after designs by Percier, who was a leading Parisian designer and architect of the period 1800-1808, its owner says. It bears the great arms of the Borghese family. Institute officials declare the Roman influence is strongly marked in the service, as under the first empire Napoleon adhered to the classic style. Although the classic style in France was originally revived by Louis XVII through the discoveries made in Pompeii, under Napoleon's rule the style was carried to the extremes and designs of ornate embellishments appeared, which was in keeping with the aspirations of the first empire.

Test May Come in Effort to Cause Union Officials to Give Testimony

Chicago, Ill., July 23.—General chairmen representing firemen and engineers on nearly all railroads west of Chicago, convened here today with their national officers to consider their procedure against the assumption of jurisdiction by the United States Railroad Labor Board in the dispute with the management.

L. G. Griffin, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, and D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, were here for the conference. If they vote to ignore the subpoena served by the United States marshal and issued by the board and decide to absent themselves from the scheduled hearings Thursday, the board probably will invoke the aid of the United States District Court.

Protecting the Consumer

The flow of crude oil is uncertain. It follows, therefore, that the resulting supply of gasoline is unsteady. The most essential feature of the broad and comprehensive service rendered by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) in the ten Middle Western states is to turn an uncertain flow of crude oil into a steady, dependable supply of gasoline. Reliability of supply is the vital need of the millions of automobiles whirling over the hills and the tens of thousands of factories whirling in every great metropolitan center. Consumers, too frequently, think of crude oil in terms of gushers. They do not realize that the gusher is only a temperamental display of nature and utterly unreliable for the purpose of doing the world's work. Only through vast storage facilities, maintained at great expense by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and other companies in the oil industry, can the motorist rely on a dependable supply of gasoline and lubricants for his car during the height of the touring season. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has a huge investment in farms of steel storage tanks, located at strategic points throughout its territory. These enormous tanks, filled to capacity in the off-season, are mute guarantors of a dependable supply in the rush season. The experience of 1923 is indicative of just how expensive is maintenance of oil storage. During that year the prices of crude petroleum were changed 105 days out of 365, due to fluctuations in production. From April to December every price change was a reduction—this period covering the heaviest motoring season of the year. When it is considered that the oil in storage in April went in during the off-season, before the decline in price, it is evident that storage imposes a heavy burden on oil companies. Holding crude oil and refined oil in storage is merely one of many items of enormous expense that are necessary to complete the cycle of service rendered by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). That these expenses are reflected but slightly in gasoline prices is due to the scientific efficiency entering into all the operations of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

MARKET NEWS

NEW WHEAT
MARK REACHED

Sensational Advance Is Followed by Recession

Chicago, July 24.—New high price records for the year were reached in the wheat market today but heavy profit-taking sales brought about a reaction. The close was extremely nervous and unsettled 7-8 to 1-5-8c lower, than yesterday's finish, with September $1.28 1-2 to $1.28 3-4 and December $1.31 1-2 to $1.31 5-8.

About mid-day, a big wave of buying swept the market up to new high price records for the season, about three cents above the day's low point. Heavy profit-taking, however, forced the market again backward.

WHEAT PRICES
VARY GREATLY

Much Fluctuation in Early Trading Today

Chicago, July 24.—In a big rapidly swinging market wheat averaged lower in price during the early dealings. Fluctuations covered a range of two cents or more. Selling was largely of a profit-taking character, induced more or less by the suddenness of yesterday's advance. Besides, fresh black rust reports from Canada this morning indicated that the amount of damage would depend on weather developments. Opening prices, which varied from 1-3-8c to 1-4c, advanced to $1.28 3-4 to $1.29 7-8, and December $1.31 7-8 to $1.32 3-4 was followed by a rise all around to fractionally above yesterday's finish and then by irregular material setbacks with swift transient rallies.

Devils Lake, N. D., July 24.—The county jail has held three prisoners, who are wanted on various charges, about the state, over the weekend. Pat Thomas, 40, who was arrested at Cando and brought to the county jail by the Cando sheriff, was sentenced to two years in the reformatory at Mandan by Judge Rutz Saturday. A stolen car was one of the counts against young Thomas. He also was apprehended as a forger when C. O. Russell came into possession of a check with the signature, Albert Dineen.

SISTERS LEAVE
INDIAN AGENCY
AT FORT YATES

Fort Yates, N. D., July 24.—Regret is expressed by the Fort Yates Pioneer that Catholic sisters are to leave the Standing Rock Agency. The newspaper says: "By the first of August, all of the Catholic sisters will be gone from the agency boarding school. Owing to a ruling made several years ago, persons wearing a religious garb are not accepted in the Indian services, and since those Sisters who were in the service have been steadily growing less in number, owing to advancing years, their number has become so small that the income derived from their 'chairs' was vastly insufficient to justify the keeping of 14 or 15 Sisters here.

Standing Rock Agency, without the Sisters will not seem like the same place. For nearly 40 years the Sisters have worked to educate and train the Indian children of this reservation, and their work has been considered of great importance in shaping the lives of these wards. Long after they have gone, their good work will be manifested in the lives of those who have been fortunate enough to come in contact with the school. It is understood that three Sisters will remain to care for the church and parsonage.

The audit, which covered a period from January 1, 1924 to June 30, 1924, shows the state had a balance on hand of $3,644,110.18 on June 30, the close of the fiscal year. During the six months period the balance and collections amounted to $14,995,482.49, of which $4,698,830.83 was on hand at the beginning of the period.

"All receipts and expenditures of the department were added and compared with the monthly totals shown by the books of the Department, and found to be correct in every detail," says the accountants' report.

"A duplicate ledger is kept by the state auditor's department of all state funds. Each fund in the ledger was compared and reconciled, and found to agree when the outstanding warrants were considered. The Highway Commission Funds do not agree when taken separately but reconcile when taken as a whole.

MARKET NEWS

NEW WHEAT MARK REACHED

Sensational Advance Is Followed by Recession

Chicago, July 24.—New high price records for the year were reached in the wheat market today but heavy profit-taking sales brought about a reaction. The close was extremely nervous and unsettled 7-8 to 1 5-8c lower, than yesterday's finish, with September $1.28 1-2 to $1.28 3-4 and December $1.31 1-2 to $1.31 5-8.

About mid-day, a big wave of buying swept the market up to new high price records for the season, about three cents above the day's low point. Heavy profit-taking, however, forced the market again backward.

WHEAT PRICES VARY GREATLY

Much Fluctuation in Early Trading Today

Chicago, July 24.—In a big rapidly swinging market wheat averaged lower in price during the early dealings. Fluctuations covered a range of two cents or more. Selling was largely of a profit-taking character, induced more or less by the suddenness of yesterday's advance. Besides, fresh black rust reports here from Canada this morning indicated that the amount of damage would depend on weather developments. Opening prices, which varied from 1 3-8 cents lower to 1-4 cent advance, September $1.28 3-4 to $1.29 7-8 and December $1.31 7-8 to $1.32 3-4 was followed by a rise all around to fractionally above yesterday's finish and then by irregular material setbacks with swift transient rallies.

A Story Without Words

3 ARRESTED IN DEVILS LAKE

Devils Lake, N. D., July 24.—The county jail has held three prisoners, who are wanted on various charges about the state, over the weekend. Pat Thomas, 49, who was arrested at Cando and brought to the county jail by the Cando sheriff, was sentenced to two years in the reformatory at Mandan by Judge Buttz Saturday. A stolen car was one of the counts against young Thomas. He also was apprehended as a forger when C. O. Russell came into possession of a check with the signature, Albert Dines.

Wanted for blackmail and arrested in Rugby, Edward Evanson of Rugby is being held in the county jail waiting a United States marshal who will take him to Fargo for trial.

Breaking his parole from the Joliet Illinois, state prison, James Mack could not go straight and was arrested at Minot when he attempted to dispose of loot taken from a Pleasant Lake clothing store.

Mack had taken twenty-seven pairs of shoes in his raid on the North Dakota store and he was trying to dispose of them in Minot. His "fence" who was selling the shoes, double-crossed him, Mack alleges. Mack was arrested and brought here for safe keeping.

He was taken to Minnewaukan yesterday and bound over to district court. Mack has eleven years to serve in Joliet on a burglary charge.

SISTERS LEAVE INDIAN AGENCY AT FORT YATES

Fort Yates, N. D., July 24.—Regret is expressed by the Fort Yates Pioneer that Catholic sisters are to leave the Standing Rock Agency. The newspaper says: "By the first of August, all of the Catholic sisters will be gone from the agency boarding school. Owing to a ruling made several years ago, persons wearing a religious garb are not accepted in the Indian services, and since those Sisters who were in the service have been steadily growing less in number, owing to advancing years, their number has become so small that the income derived from their salaries was vastly insufficient to justify the keeping of 14 or 15 Sisters here.

Standing Rock Agency, without the Sisters will not seem like the same place. For nearly 40 years the Sisters have worked to educate and train the Indian children of this reservation, and their work has been considered of great importance in shaping the lives of these wards. Long after they have gone, their good work will be manifested in the lives of those who have been fortunate enough to come in contact with the school. It is understood that three Sisters will remain to care for the church and parsonage.

TREASURER IS GIVEN BOOST

Office Found O. K. By Examiners for State

State treasurer John Steen's office is given a clean bill of health and a boost by O. B. Lund and O. T. Nelson, examiners, who have completed an audit of the office as required by law. Under the present law, it is provided the state board of auditors shall have an account of the books in the office and also that the state examiner's office shall do this. Mr. Lund, for the board of auditors, and Mr. Nelson, for the bank examiner's office, cooperated to reduce the expense of the audit.

The audit, which covered a period from January 1, 1924 to June 30, 1924, shows the state had a balance on hand of $3,644,110.18 on June 30, the close of the fiscal year. During the six months period the balance and collections amounted to $14,995,482.49, of which $4,898,839.83 was on hand at the beginning of the period.

"All receipts and expenditures of the department were added and compared with the monthly totals shown in the books of the department, and found to be correct in every detail," says the accountants' report.

"A duplicate ledger is kept by the state auditor's department of all state funds. Each fund in the ledger was compared and reconciled, and found to agree when the outstanding warrants were considered. The Highway Commission Funds do not agree when taken separately but reconcile when taken as a whole.

"A comprehensive method of keeping accounts is in use in the state treasurer's department, deposited daily with the Bank of North Dakota.

"The state treasurer and his assistants afforded us every facility in making this examination and we wish to acknowledge their hearty cooperation and assistance."

FORMER LOCAL RESIDENT DIES IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Mary J. Street, Widow of Alexander McGillivray of Dickinson, Victim

Mrs. Mary J. Street, widow of Alexander McGillivray, who was prominent in North Dakota politics, died July 2 from injuries received in an automobile accident Sunday evening, according to a telegram to The Tribune from the Dickinson Record. She suffered a broken shoulder blade and ribs. She was resident of Dickinson for 40 years and was prominent in social affairs in children's society. She had been married in the last few years to Frank Street.

Alexander McGillivray died on June 4, 1907. He was an early resident of Dakota Territory, and was engaged in clerical work in Bismarck in 1882. Later he moved to Dickinson where he was in the general mercantile business. He also was forwarding agent for the Black Hills freight line. He owned half interest in the Lehigh Mining Company and had other extensive business interests.

Mr. McGillivray was married on January 17, 1883, to Mrs. Mary J. Montague of Cairo, Michigan, a native of Canada. They lived in Bismarck after Mr. McGillivray was made register of the United States Land Office here in 1899. He was mainly responsible for the division of the land office territory and the establishment of a separate office at Dickinson. He retired from the land office in 1906 and continued his business in Dickinson. He was state senator and one of the leaders of the Republican party in the state.

She is remembered by many Bismarck residents, and her acquaintance with many South Dakotans was well known during her residence here.

OLD SENTENCE PUT IN FORCE

The suspended sentence given Harry Reindinger on April 1, 1924, was, on motion of State's Attorney Allen, put in force yesterday afternoon and Reindinger was committed to the Burleigh County jail to serve ninety days and was ordered to pay a fine of $200.00 and $50.00 costs. If the fine is not paid the court ordered that he is to serve one hundred days in addition to the ninety days.

On Monday the State's Attorney ordered a search warrant issued to search the premises of Ted Sheldon northeast of Bismarck. The Sheriff, with two Federal Prohibition Inspectors made search. The officers were unable to locate any apparatus used for making moonshine or to find any evidence that moonshine had been made by Sheldon.

As a cowboy Galahad, slow of gait, easy going by nature, Carey is given the opportunity of putting in many of the little human touches for which he is noted. When he is called upon to protect a girl whom he has never seen, however, he suffers a strange metamorphosis and assumes all the characteristics of the title.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

RAISES AN ISSUE

Pleas of guilty to murder in the first degree entered by Loeb and Leopold raise the issue again of the efficacy of capital punishment as a deterrent of crime. Speculation as to what the judge will do is general in every locality. The cynic suggests that the millions in wealth back of the defendants will save them from the gallows.

The fact, however, that these boys have thrown themselves upon the mercy of the court indicates that their parents followed wise legal advice and opened the only avenue of clemency available. Whether any degree of clemency will be meted out by the course followed in the handling of this case does not alter the fact that a plea of guilty in this case has spared the public sickening details of a most revolting crime.

Experience in every state and in foreign countries has shown that capital punishment has decreased the number of murders. The increase of capital offenses in some states has been great and alarming. Slowness of arrest, delays in conviction and abuse of the pardon power have caused students of crime in many instances to urge the general restoration of capital punishment.

In North Dakota, the capital punishment statute left it discretionary with the jury whether the extreme penalty be imposed and many judges today will substantiate the fact that this law acted as a deterrent of murder.

Most people will agree that the young men in Chicago who foully murdered a boy should hang. Their millions should not purchase them immunity from the gallows. A very good example of how jail sentences or commitment to asylums for rich criminals work out is to be had in the Thaw case.

The murder of White was a cold blooded, premeditated and unjustifiable crime. Harry Thaw is a free man today because public opinion is no longer aroused and the people have forgotten the monstrosity of his crime. So it doubtless would be with Loeb and Leopold in twenty or thirty years from now after the public had forgotten this most brutal murder.

Society's right to be protected in instances such as this is paramount to every other consideration. Capital punishment should be applied in this instance. There is no more effective way to protect society from murderous assault than by exacting the death penalty when all mitigating circumstances or doubt of guilt are absent.

NEIGHBORLY EXCHANGE

For many years the Canadian government conducted a highly systematized program of exploitation of the western provinces, and hundreds of thousands of American farmers from all sections drifted in to the provinces. The agricultural depression, with a succession of poor grain crops which allowed too intensive wheat farming of the area and unfavorable weather conditions, has caused many to return to the United States. This year the recent increase in wheat prices has been due in large measure to the reports of crop failure in western Canada. The effect of the situation may be to check the emigration of farmers of the United States to Canada, and also to cause the return of many who sought to build new homes there. It is a condition which should be profitable to the Northwestern states. Always there is a ceaseless nomadic tide. Thousands of farmers in the middle west are ready to seek new homes. The Northwest is in a more favorable position to offer something of value and attraction to such people than Canada.

While thousands of Americans have emigrated to Canada, there has been a large flow of Canadians into the United States in a neighborly exchange, as it were. Statistics just made public by the Department of Immigration and Colonization of Canada show that natives are returning to the Dominion at the rate of approximately 4,500 a month. In April and May, approximately 9,000 Canadians who had been in the United States six months or longer recrossed the border on the way to resume their residence in Canada.

It is suspected in some quarters that the Northward movement is largely seasonal, and that in the fall and winter many Canadians will be drifting southward again. For many years Canada has sought to combat the problem of emigration to the United States. While the government was seeking immigrants from the United States it also sought to check the drain from her cities and towns of young men and women, who crossed the border to find better wages than at home. Hundreds of thousands of them have become permanent residents of the United States.

It is probable that there will be for many years such an exchange between the two countries, just as there is migration within the borders of each.

WANDERLUST

Occasionally one sees scribbled on the top of a car some legend celebrating a wanderer's return to his native heath. Some of them are humorous in phraseology but many of these trips across the continent in search of greener pastures reveal profitable lessons and teach eloquently the truth that "rolling stones gather no moss."

"Back to Kalamazoo" read a sign scribbled over the hood of an automobile parked on a Bismarck street recently. On the back of the car was painted "Sunny California" and underneath a most derisive reference to the overworked slogan that has coaxed thousands to leave their own progressive communities for the green hills far away.

This car showed every evidence of "hard pan." The occupants of the automobile showed signs of hardship and upon their faces, turned toward "Kalamazoo," glowed contentment.

Thousands have turned back to their homes in the middle West, to Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa and other states there to resume former vocations which mean to them a steady income and happiness among friends; a satisfaction not found in the far west, the land of their dreams.

The moral is plain.

Editorial Review

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

THE BLOC AND THE GOVERNMENT

While the Democratic convention was wallowing in the muddle it made for itself, Robert E. Lee Saner of Texas, president of the American Bar Association, was discussing the activity of minority groups at the meeting of the association at Philadelphia.

Mr. Saner especially addressed himself to the fact that 167 different amendments to the Constitution were proposed at the last session of Congress. Nearly all of these emanated from minority groups, proposing to fix minority notions in the fundamental law of the land.

How far this tendency has progressed and how serious its possible influence on the course of government was pointed out by Mr. Saner in his comments on the situation in Congress.

"We saw in the organization of the last Congress the overpowering influence of a small insurgent but highly organized bloc. This, too, has encouraged the activities of highly organized minority factions who seek by intensive propaganda to convince the representatives that their peculiar wish is the voice of the people."

"To this disproportionate power in the insurgent blocs and subterfuge to popular propaganda may be traced the present tendency of Congress toward the enactment of sumptuary laws increasing private interference in affairs of private concern and then denying to it that measure of faith and confidence which might more creditably strive to attain."

There is a stern indictment of the bloc as such. In the platform adopted at New York is a boast that through the assistance of the blocs the Democratic minority was enabled to defeat the administration in its principal program. The insurgents are given no credit, but not controlling them, even at the very time when the Democrats were giving them the utmost aid and comfort.

The bloc or group, insurgent or otherwise, can not be denied under our form of government. Only when its effort becomes destructive does the minority become subject to severe criticism or an object of suspicion.

In the last Congress the purpose of the bloc was manifest from the outset. It was not to secure any constructive work, to make sure of any lasting benefit for the people, but simply to thwart the administration in its efforts to enact laws that were deemed necessary. Behind this effort was the admitted determination of the leader of the insurgents to run for the office of President of the United States.

All the business of the government, of whatever kind or nature, had to pass the scrutiny of the bloc leader. He royally exercised his private veto through the activity of a handful of followers, insignificant in numbers, yet rendered absolute by reason of the fact that the Democrats, themselves a minority, acquiesced in and supported the bloc in all its major operations.

Mr. Saner declares, was suspended for the time, and bloc control ruled. The expression of a highly organized minority took precedence at all points in Congress—Omaha Bee.

IMMIGRANTS FROM CANADA

Migration from the Canadian maritime provinces to the United States, stimulated by bad industrial conditions, began to alarm the business and political interests of the three eastern provinces—Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island—early in 1923. Through the Port of Montreal, N. S., Canadian terminal for a steamship service, with the United States terminal at Boston, the exodus has numbered from 4,000 to 5,000 per month. By steamer from St. John a similar number went to Boston. By rail approximately 10,000 per month left the maritime provinces. The majority of these emigrants settled in New England, although many thousands made their homes in and about New York city, and many thousands also went to Detroit and other cities in the Central United States. Some thousands more proceeded further west to California, Oregon and Washington. It is estimated that the year 1923 saw about 200,000 people leave the maritime provinces to settle in the United States. Most of these were young men and women, with an extraordinarily large proportion of married men transferring their homes from Canada to the United States.

A serious consequence of the depression has been that talk of secession from the Dominion on the part of the three maritime provinces has become rife.—P. C. Armstrong in Current History Magazine.

CAT RINGS BELL

London, July 24.—"Dear Oofus," a black cat owned by a London grocer, has been taught to ring a bell when it wants to be admitted to the dining room. The bell has been fitted up outside the diningroom and Oscar claws a string when he wants to come in. The cat also has been taught to imitate the barking of a dog.

FABLES ON HEALTH—
MATERNITY CLOTHING

The type of clothing she should wear greatly interested Mrs. Jones before the arrival of her first baby.

"The main thing is to keep warm," the family doctor instructed her. "Attractive maternity clothes can be found in any town of any appreciable size. Light undergarments should be avoided when there is any chance of chilling, for chilling is quite dangerous. Low-heeled shoes are generally recommended; and they should be of comfortable shape and size. High heels are likely to put an added strain on the patient's back muscles at such a time. Tight-fitting garters should be avoided because of the pressure against the veins of the legs."

In brief, every effort should be made to insure the maximum comfort, and there is no reason why in gaining this, personal appearance need in any measure be sacrificed.

Mister Zip liked to have people spend money in Happy Go Lucky Park. The more they spent the quicker he would make his fortune. "Show Mrs. Porcupine around, Nancy," he said out loud. "And see that she has a good time."

"What's that thing?" asked Mrs. Porcupine when they came to the roller coaster. "That's the roller coaster," said Nancy. "You pay 10 cents and get into one of the cars and away went it, and suddenly off went her hat."

She didn't notice the sign which said "Hold your hats." Indeed, when the little car began to shoot around curves and whiz through tunnels and dip into hollows and leap over bumps, it was all she could do to hold herself in.

She grabbed the sides of the car with both hands and held on for dear life. "My goodness! Mercy me!" she cried. "Oh, dear me! I've lost my hat. 'Help! Help!' she screamed as it disappeared over the edge of the roller coaster. And she was still screaming 'help' when the little car brought her back to the starting place.

"Why, where is your hat?" cried Nancy. "That's what I'd like to know!" declared Mrs. Porcupine tearfully. "It blew off."

"We'll go and look for it," said Nick. "It can't be far away."

"A hat!" cried Bosxy, Cow, who was eating grass over in a field. "No, I didn't see any hat. A bunch of straw and some brown-eyed Susans fell out of the sky and I ate it. That's all I saw."

"Oh, dear me!" wailed Mrs. Porcupine. "I'll pay you for the hat," said Mister Zip kindly. "Don't cry."

"That was luck," said Mrs. Porcupine to herself on her way home. "I didn't like that hat and I couldn't take it back. Now I can buy a new one."

A Thought

A false balance is abomination to the Lord; but a just weight is his delight.—Prov. 11:1.

Honest minds are pleased with honest things.—Beaumont and Fletcher.

EVERETT TRUE BY CONDO

THE BIG ONES GET AWAY

By Albert Apple

A 20-pound muskellunge was hooked by a fisherman in Sparrow Lake, Ontario, Canada. He landed it in his rowboat. Now, a 20-pound "lunge" in a rowboat is about as genial and active as a wildcat.

This fisherman, Bill Sparling, was alone in his boat—no one to advise. Also, he was a "city feller," had never before caught anything as big. Nothing in his rowboat to kill the "lunge" by a whack behind the eyes. But he happened to have a loaded shotgun.

So he blew off his head—also blew a big hole in the bottom of his boat. An Ojibway Indian rescued him before he drowned among the weeds.

Fishing is an exciting game—when they're striking. That's why hundreds of thousands of Americans are vacationing with rod and line.

Fishing and hunting are the most ancient industries of man. They existed long before agriculture. When a man fishes, he answers the call of the wild inherited from barbaric ancestors.

No real sportsman ever catches and kills more fish than will be eaten. To do so is vandalism.

All anglers know that the streams and lakes of our continent are gradually being "fished out." Restocking is unable to keep up with catches. Accordingly, good sports will make use of this fact:

When you catch a fish too small to keep, always handle him with wet hands. A dry hand is almost certain to kill the fish, for it ruins the oily protective film over the scales.

Another thing: An angler, enraged because the fish isn't large, often hurls it viciously far from the boat. This is apt to kill the fish within a few days. A fish isn't made of iron. And water is hard, as you know if you ever hit it flat with your stomach in diving.

Play the game fairly. Be a good sport. Help conserve the vanishing fish resources.

LETTER POSTMARKED "NEW YORK" TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT, OPENED BY MRS. ATHERTON

DEAR MR. PRESCOTT:

For a long time I have been trying to make up my mind to disclose to you something you ought to know.

Do you know that beautiful string of pearl beads that your wife wears, that you have always thought a fine imitation, is real? Instead of being given to her by her sister at her wedding as it was listed among her presents in the newspaper, it was a gift to her from her former lover.

The man has just returned from England, and I have seen him together in New York. As long as this man was in England, I did not wish to disturb your happiness, but now I am afraid your wife will be tempted by the wealth and loyalty of this former sweetheart whom she has known, ever since she was a young girl.

I have seen them together in New York lately, and they seemed very much interested in each other. Ask your wife why she has not told you about these pearls.

Notation on bottom of letter by Mrs. Atherton

This letter was not marked personal, consequently I of course opened it. Now that I have done so I cannot help saying that no one should pay any attention to an anonymous letter. I think this note especially demerit.

Letter from Leslie Prescott to Leslie Prescott, Care the Secret Drawer:

It has come, little Marquise, it has come; and I am sure that never in all your gay young life could you have been so miserable as I am at this present moment.

Yesterday in the midst of my preparations for my anniversary party, I received a telephone from Jack saying: "Leslie, where are those pearl beads you used to tell I haven't seen them lately?"

Before I thought I answered: "They're in my wall safe." "Isn't it rather foolish to clutter up a wall safe with a trumpery set of pearl beads?" he asked, and I thought there was a sarcastic ring in his voice.

"That's just it, Jack," I said quickly. "They're not a trumpery set of beads." "Oh—what are they then?" "They're a string of real pearls, Jack, and I have been trying to tell you about them ever since before I went away to New York, but I didn't know just how."

"That's all very well to say now, Leslie, that you know I have found out about them. I'm coming home directly to get them and return them to the gentleman who gave them to you." "You will do nothing of the kind, Jack." "You have nothing to say about what I shall do, Leslie."

"I'll tell you what I shall do," I said over the phone. "I will tell you the whole story when you come home."

Personal Peek At The Dems' Candidates

By Harry B. Hunt
New York, July 24.—"The Good Gray Candidate" is the title likely to be appended to John W. Davis, the Democratic choice for president, before the campaign has progressed many weeks.

For the outstanding factor in Davis' appearance in his crown of snow-white hair. His face is that of the average well-to-do, well-kept, smooth-shaven man of 51, a trifle florid after exertion, but with not too high a color and devoid of any wrinkling of age. His white hair, however, is that of a patriarch of the 70's.

Davis is a "comfortable" sort of person. Thoroughly at ease himself in any company, he makes those around him feel at ease. He is also easy and comfortable in his clothes, preferring soft-collared shirts and roomy lightweight suits to the more dignified habiliments of many near-great leaders.

This ease of bearing which lends him distinction in any garb and any company, once led an English journalist to say of him that, even at court receptions and formal functions which he attended as American ambassador to Great Britain, where gold braid and glittering uniforms are the rule, and where even our George Harvey appeared in knee pants, Davis, in ordinary evening dress, carried an air which marked him as one of the striking figures in any group.

Notwithstanding descriptions by the society writers to the contrary, Davis is not a handsome man. His features are not sufficiently symmetrical for that.

His forehead is too bulging, the lines of his cheeks too flattened, the nose too thin and restrained to qualify him in a beauty contest. He is, however, unquestionably a man of striking appearance.

Anyhow, in picking a man to run against Calvin Coolidge, it was not considered necessary to search for an Adonis. Strength and personality were much more desirable qualifications, and Davis supplies both of those in good measure.

In picking Gov. Charles Bryan of Nebraska, the Democrats added a touch of color that promises to brighten the campaign.

Charles, who for many years edited the publication of his famous and much-nominated brother, William Jennings, "The Commoner," has a shining bald head which he hides under a little black skull cap. Can't you just imagine what the Republican cartoonists will do to that? Charles came to the convention and occupied a room at the Waldorf with his brother, Bill. He was not a delegate, and therefore kept off the floor of Madison Square Garden, but he spent much time in the run-way under the speaker's platform, listening to the proceedings and waiting for something to turn up. Perhaps the nomination was the reward for his patient persistence.

Other considerations than his persistence, however, had the deciding hand in placing him as second man on the ticket.

William Jennings Bryan is still a power in the party. Even his bitterest enemies admit that. And in the speech by which he sought to break the deadlock, after the first five days' balloting, Brother Bill enumerated half a dozen candidates whom he considered as good timber for the nomination. In this list he did not include Davis. Davis he was frank to say to any one who asked, he considered too close to Wall Street.

After Davis had been nominated, the question then came of picking a running mate that would hold Bryan—William Jennings Bryan—to the ticket.

The obvious answer was: "Brother Charles." With Brother Charles on the tail end of the ticket, Brother Bill certainly would trail along.

So Charles was nominated. And Bill says he's satisfied.

Mrs. L. B. Sowles writes interestingly of the national convention for Business and Professional women's clubs at West Baden, Ind., at which she is representing Bismarck. There are 9 delegates from North Dakota, with over 200 delegates from the various parts of the United States the morning of the convention opened.

Three special cars carried the delegates who had gathered at St. Paul, to West Baden, each state making itself known by the giving of original songs and yells. The first day of convention was spent in the routine of getting registered and identified.

One of the important questions before the convention will be the financing of the Independent Woman, the official organ of the federation. It is now financed through a subsidy fund, but efforts will be made to have the magazine put on a self-supporting basis through its advertising. The fund to be allowed to grow and used as a scholarship for the young women just entering business to make "better business women for a better business world."

Magnificent try fate,
Once Mistress of the Seas!
No braver vessel ever flung
A pennon to the breeze;
No bark e'er died a death so grand;
Such heroes never vessel manned;
Your parting broadside broke the wave
That surged above your patriot grave;
Your flag, the gamest of the game,
Sank proudly with you—not in shame,
But in its ancient glory;
The memory of its parting gleam
Will never fade while poets dream;
The echo of your dying gun
Will last till man his race has run,
Then live in Angel Story.

Mrs. H. F. Keller was hostess yesterday afternoon to a number of friends complimenting her house guest, Mrs. Fred Fairbrother of Portland, Ore. Garden flowers were used to decorate the rooms. The afternoon was spent informally, in sewing and playing bridge. At 5 a dainty luncheon was served. Out of town guests were Mrs. J. Martins and daughter Miss Dora of St. Paul, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mundy. Mr. and Mrs. Fairbrother expect to leave tomorrow for their home in Portland.

THE CUMBERLAND

Magnificent thy fate,
Once Mistress of the Seas!
No braver vessel ever flung
A pennon to the breeze;
No bark e'er died a death so grand;
Such heroes never vessel manned;
Your parting broadside broke the wave
That surged above your patriot grave;
Your flag, the gamest of the game,
Sank proudly with you—not in shame,
But in its ancient glory;
The memory of its parting gleam
Will never fade while poets dream;
The echo of your dying gun
Will last till man his race has run,
Then live in Angel Story.

Safety of funds is a matter of prime importance to the traveller. Nothing can so detract from the pleasure of a vacation trip as worry about the loss of one's money.

Traveller's cheques will provide safety and eliminate worry. These cheques are, in effect, safe guarded bank notes. They are cashed without question by hotels, railroads, bankers everywhere, only the counter signature of the owner being required. If lost or stolen the owner is protected from loss.

Issued in convenient denominations they constitute a convenient and highly desirable form of travel funds.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

RAISES AN ISSUE
Pleas of guilty to murder in the first degree entered by Loeb and Leopold raise the issue again of the efficacy of capital punishment as a deterrent of crime. Speculation as to what the judge will do is general in every locality. The cynic suggests that the millions in wealth back of the defendants will save them from the gallows.

The fact, however, that these boys have thrown themselves upon the mercy of the court indicates that their parents followed wise legal advice and opened the only avenue of clemency available. Whether any degree of clemency will be meted out by the course followed in the handling of this case does not alter the fact that a plea of guilty in this case has spared the public sickening details of a most revolting crime.

Experience in every state and in foreign countries has shown that capital punishment has decreased the number of murders. The increase of capital offenses in some states has been great and alarming. Slowness of arrest, delays in conviction and abuse of the pardon power have caused students of crime in many instances to urge the general restoration of capital punishment.

In North Dakota, the capital punishment statute left it discretionary with the jury whether the extreme penalty be imposed and many judges today will substantiate the fact that this law acted as a deterrent of murder.

Most people will agree that the young men in Chicago who foully murdered a boy should hang. Their millions should not purchase them immunity from the gallows. A very good example of how jail sentences or commitment to asylums for rich criminals work out is to be had in the Thaw case.

The murder of White was a cold blooded, premeditated and unjustifiable crime. Harry Thaw is a free man today because public opinion is no longer aroused and the people have forgotten the monstrosity of his crime. So it doubtless would be with Loeb and Leopold in twenty or thirty years from now after the public had forgotten this most heinous murder.

Society's right to be protected in instances such as this is paramount to every other consideration. Capital punishment should be applied in this instance. There is no more effective way to protect society from murderous assault than by exacting the death penalty when all mitigating circumstances or doubt of guilt are absent.

NEIGHBORLY EXCHANGE

For many years the Canadian government conducted a highly systematized program of exploitation of the western provinces, and hundreds of thousands of American farmers from all sections drifted in to the provinces. The agricultural depression, with a succession of poor grain crops which followed too intensive wheat farming of the area and unfavorable weather conditions, has caused many to return to the United States. This year the recent increase in wheat prices has been due in large measure to the reports of crop failure in western Canada. The effect of the situation may be to check the emigration of farmers of the United States to Canada, and also to cause the return of many who sought to build new homes there. It is a condition which should be profitable to the Northwestern states. Always there is a restless nomadic tide. Thousands of farmers in the middle west are ready to seek new homes. The Northwest is in a more favorable position to offer something of value and attraction to such people than Canada.

While thousands of Americans have emigrated to Canada, there has been a large flow of Canadians into the United States in a neighborly exchange, as it were. Statistics just made public by the Department of Immigration and Colonization of Canada show that natives are returning to the United States at the rate of approximately 4,500 a month. In April and May, approximately 9,000 Canadians who had been in the United States six months or longer recrossed the border on the way to resume their residence in Canada.

It is suspected in some quarters that the Northward movement is largely seasonal, and that in the fall and winter many Canadians will be drifting southward again. For many years Canada has sought to combat the problem of emigration to the United States. While the government was seeking immigrants from the United States it also sought to check the drain from her cities and towns of young men and women, who crossed the border to find better wages than at home. Hundreds of thousands of them have become permanent residents of the United States.

It is probable that there will be for many years such an exchange between the two countries, just as there is migration within the borders of each.

WANDERLUST

Occasionally one sees scribbled on the top of a car some legend celebrating a wanderer's return to his native hearth. Some of them are humorous in phraseology but many of these trips across the continent in search of greener pastures reveal profitable lessons and teach eloquently the truth that "rolling stones gather no moss."

"Back to Kalamazoo" read a sign scribbled over the hood of an automobile parked on a Bismarck street recently. On the back of the car was painted "Sunny California" and underneath a most derisive reference to the overworked slogan that has coaxed thousands to leave their own progressive communities for the green hills far away.

This car showed every evidence of "hard pan." The occupants of the automobile showed signs of hardship and upon their faces, turned toward "Kalamazoo," glowed contentment.

Thousands have turned back to their homes in the middle West, to Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa and other states there to resume former vocations which mean to them a steady income and happiness among friends; a satisfaction not found in the far west, the land of their dreams.

The moral is plain.

Editorial Review

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

THE BLOC AND THE GOVERNMENT

While the Democratic convention was wallowing in the muddle it made for itself, Robert E. Lee Saner of Texas, president of the American Bar Association, was discussing the activity of minority groups at the meeting of the association at Philadelphia.

Mr. Saner especially addressed himself to the fact that 167 different amendments to the Constitution were proposed at the last session of Congress. Nearly all of these emanated from minority groups, proposing to fix minority notions in the fundamental law of the land.

How far this tendency has progressed and how serious its possible influence on the course of government was pointed out by Mr. Saner in his comments on the situation in Congress.

"We saw in the organization of the last Congress the overpowering influence of a small insurgent but highly organized bloc. This, too, has encouraged the activities of highly organized minority factions who seek by intensive propaganda to convince the representatives that their peculiar wish is the voice of the people."

"To this disproportionate power in the insurgent blocs and subversion to popular propaganda may be traced the present tendency of Congress toward the enactment of sumptuary laws increasing federal interference in affairs of private concern and then denying to that measure of faith and confidence which it might more credibly strive to attain."

There is a stern indictment of the bloc as such. In the platform adopted at New York is a boast that through the assistance of the bloc the Democratic minority was enabled to defeat the administration in its principal program. The insurgents are given no credit, but the Republicans are blamed for not controlling them, even at the very time when the Democrats were giving them the utmost aid and comfort.

The bloc or group, insurgent or otherwise, cannot be denied under our form of government. Only when its effort becomes destructive does the minority become subject to severe criticism or an object of suspicion.

In the last Congress the purpose of the bloc was manifest from the outset. It was not to secure any constructive work, to make sure of any lasting benefit for the people, but simply to thwart the administration in its efforts to enact laws that were deemed necessary. Behind this effort was the admitted determination of the leader of the insurgents to run for the office of President of the United States.

All the business of the government, of whatever kind or nature, had to pass the scrutiny of the bloc leader. He royally exercised private veto through the activities of a handful of followers, insignificant in numbers, yet rendered absolute by reason of the fact that the Democrats, themselves a minority, acquiesced in and supported the bloc in all its major operations.

Representative government, as Mr. Saner declares, was suspended for the time, and bloc control ruled. The expression of a highly organized minority took precedence at all points in Congress.

IMMIGRANTS FROM CANADA

Migration from the Canadian maritime provinces to the United States, stimulated by bad industrial conditions began to alarm the business and political interests of the three eastern provinces—Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island—early in 1923. Through the Port of Yarmouth, N. S., Canadian terminal for a steamship service, with the United States terminal at Boston, the exodus was numbered from 4,000 to 5,000 a month. By steamer from St. John a similar number went to Boston. By rail approximately 10,000 per month left the maritime provinces. The majority of these emigrants settled in New England, although many thousands made their homes in and about New York city, and many thousands also went to Detroit and other cities in the Central United States. Some thousands more proceeded further west to California, Oregon and Washington.

It is estimated that the year 1923 saw about 200,000 people leave the maritime provinces to settle in the United States. Most of these were young men and women, with an extraordinarily large proportion of married men transferring their homes from Canada to the United States.

A serious consequence of the depression has been that talk of secession from the Dominion on the part of the three maritime provinces has become rife.—P. C. Armstrong in Current History Magazine.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BASTON

Mrs. Prickles Porcupine came to Happy Go Lucky Park one day dressed up in her Sunday best.

"Hello, Mrs. Porcupine," called Nick. "How nice you look!"

"I should say so," remarked Nancy kindly. "Where in the world did you get such a becoming hat?"

"Why, I got it at the store," said Mrs. Porcupine modestly. "But really, I couldn't make up my mind whether to take it or not. Yellow never was becoming to me and these brown-eyed Susans on the hat make me look sallow, I think."

"Oh, no, they don't," said Nancy. "They look lovely on your straw hat. Really they look exactly as though they were growing right out of a flower pot."

"Well, I'm glad of that," said Mrs. Porcupine, in a relieved voice. "I do hope it won't rain, for I came without an umbrella and I'd hate to get my best hat spoiled."

"How do you do, Mrs. Porcupine," said Mister Zip the fairyman. "Welcome to Happy Go Lucky Park. We haven't seen you here much."

"No, this is my first visit," said Mrs. Porcupine, looking around. "I didn't want to come until I got my new hat. I just got it this morning."

At that Mister Zip said how becoming it was to her, but becoming it was to himself. "I do hope she saved enough money to spend," for

FABLES ON HEALTH—MATERNITY CLOTHING

The type of clothing she should wear greatly interested Mrs. Jones before the arrival of her first baby.

"The main thing is to keep warm," the family doctor instructed her. "Attractive maternity clothes can be found in any town of any appreciable size. Light undergarments should be avoided when there is any chance of chilling, for chilling is quite dangerous."

Low-heeled shoes are generally recommended; and they should be of comfortable shape and size. High heels are likely to put an added strain on the patient's back muscles at such a time. Tight-fitting garters should be avoided because of the pressure against the veins of the legs.

In brief, every effort should be made to insure the maximum comfort, and there is no reason why in gaining this, personal appearance need in any measure be sacrificed.

Mister Zip liked to have people spend money in Happy Go Lucky Park. The more they spent the quicker he would make his fortune.

"Show Mrs. Porcupine around, Nancy," he said out loud. "And see that she has a good time."

"What's that thing?" asked Mrs. Porcupine when they came to the roller coaster.

"That's the roller coaster," said Nancy. "You pay 10 cents and get into one of those little cars and it takes you for a lovely ride on a track."

"I think I'll take a ticket," said the porcupine lady, fishing around in her pocketbook for a dime.

Nancy got her a ticket and put her into one of the cars and away went Mrs. Porcupine all aflutter with excitement.

She didn't notice the sign which said "Hold your hats."

Indeed, when the little car began to shoot around curves and whirl through tunnels and dip into hollows, and leap over bumps, it was all she could do to hold herself in. She grabbed the sides of the car with both hands and held on for dear life.

"My goodness! Mercy me!" she cried. "Oh, dear me!"

And suddenly off went her hat. "Help! Help!" she screamed as it disappeared over the edge of the roller coaster. And she was still screaming "help" when the little car brought her back to the starting place.

"Why, where is your hat?" cried Nancy.

"That's what I'd like to know!" declared Mrs. Porcupine tearfully. "It blew off."

"We'll go and look for it," said Nick. "It can't be far away."

"A hat!" cried Bossy Cow, who was eating grass over in a field. "No, I didn't see any hat. A bunch of straw and some brown-eyed Susans fell out of the sky and I ate it. That's all I saw."

"Oh, dear me!" wailed Mrs. Porcupine.

"I'll pay you for the hat," said Mister Zip kindly. "Don't cry."

"That was luck," said Mrs. Porcupine to herself on her way home. "I didn't like that hat and I couldn't take it back. Now I can buy a new one."

A Thought

A false balance is abomination to the Lord; but a just weight is His delight.—Prov. 11:1.

Honest minds are pleased with honest things.—Beaumont and Fletcher.

EVERETT TRUE BY CONDO

THE BIG ONES GET AWAY

By Albert Apple

A 20-pound muskellunge was hooked by a fisherman in Sparrow Lake, Ontario, Canada. He landed it in his rowboat. Now, a 20-pound "lunge" in a rowboat is about as genial and active as a wildcat.

This fisherman, Bill Sparling, was alone in his boat—no one to advise. Also, he was a "city feller," had never before caught anything as big. Nothing in his rowboat to kill the "lunge" by a whack behind the eyes. But he happened to have a loaded shotgun.

So he blew off his head—also blew a big hole in the bottom of his boat. An Ojibwa Indian rescued him before he drowned among the weeds.

Fishing is an exciting game—when they're striking. That's why hundreds of thousands of Americans are vacationing with rod and line.

Fishing and hunting are the most ancient industries of man. They existed long before agriculture. When a man fishes, he answers the call of the wild inherited from barbaric ancestors.

No real sportsman ever catches and kills more fish than will be eaten. To do so is vandalism.

All anglers know that the streams and lakes of our continent are gradually being "fished out." Restocking is unable to keep up with catches. Accordingly, good sports will make use of this fact:

When you catch a fish too small to keep, always handle him with wet hands. A dry hand is almost certain to kill the fish, for it ruins the oily protective film over the scales.

Another thing: An angler, enraged because the fish isn't large, often hurls it viciously far from the boat. This is apt to kill the fish within a few days. A fish isn't made of iron. And water is hard, as you know if you ever hit it flat with your stomach in diving.

Play the game fairly. Be a good sport. Help conserve the vanishing fish resources.

LETTER POSTMARKED "NEW YORK" TO JOHN ALDEN PRES-COTT, OPENED BY MRS. ATHERTON

DEAR MR. PRES-COTT:

For a long time I have been trying to make up my mind to disclose to you something you ought to know.

Do you know that beautiful string of pearl beads that your wife wears, that you have always thought a fine imitation, is real? Instead of being given to her by her sister at her wedding as it was listed among her presents in the "wedding registry," it was a gift to her from her former lover.

The man has just returned from England, and I have seen them together in New York. As long as this man was in England, I did not wish to disturb your happiness, but now I am afraid your wife will be tempted by the wealth and loyalty of this former sweetheart whom she has known ever since she was a young girl.

I have seen them together in New York lately, and they seemed very much interested in each other. Ask your wife why she has not told you about these pearls.

Notation on bottom of letter by Mrs. Atherton

This letter was not marked personal, consequently I of course opened it. Now that I have done so I cannot help saying that no one should pay any attention to an anonymous letter. I think this is especially demoralizing.

Letter From Leslie Prescott to Leslie Prescott, Care of the Secret Drawer:

It has come, little Marquise, it has come; and I am sure that never in all your gay young life could you have been so miserable as I am at this present moment.

Yesterday in the midst of my preparations for my anniversary party, I received a telephone from Jack saying: "Leslie, where are those pearl beads you used to wear? I haven't seen them lately."

Before I thought I answered: "They're in my wall safe."

"Isn't it rather foolish to clutter up a wall safe with a trumpery set of pearl beads?" he asked, and I thought there was a sarcastic ring in his voice.

"That's just it, Jack," I said quickly. "They're not a trumpery set of beads."

"Oh—what are they then?"

"They're a string of real pearls, Jack, and I have been trying to tell you about them ever since before I went away to New York, but I didn't know just how."

"That's all very well to say now, Leslie, that you know I have found out about them. I'm coming home directly to get them and return them to the gentleman who gave them to you."

"You will do nothing of the kind, Jack."

"You have nothing to say about what I shall do, Leslie."

But certainly have nothing to say over the phone. I will tell you the whole story when you come home."

Personal Peek At The Dems' Candidates

By Harry B. Hunt

New York, July 24.—"The Good Gray Candidate" is the title likely to be appended to John W. Davis, the Democratic choice for president, before the campaign has progressed many weeks.

For the outstanding factor in Davis' appearance in his crown of snow-white hair. His face is that of the average well-fed, well-kept, smooth-shaven man of 50, a trifle florid after exertion, but with not the least color and devoid of any wrinkling of age. His white hair, however, is that of a patriarch of the 70's.

Davis is a "comfortable" sort of person. Thoroughly at ease himself in any company, he makes those around him feel at ease. He is also easy and comfortable in his clothes, preferring soft-collared shirts and roomy lightweight suits to the more dignified habiliments of many near-great lawyers.

This ease of bearing which lends him distinction in any group, and any company, once led an English journalist to say of him that, even at court receptions and formal functions which he attended as American ambassador to Great Britain, where gold braid and glittering uniforms are the rule, and where even our George Harvey appeared in knee pants, Davis, in ordinary evening dress, carried an air which marked him as one of the striking figures in any group.

Notwithstanding descriptions by the society writers to the contrary, Davis is not a handsome man. His features are not sufficiently symmetrical for that.

His forehead is too bulging, the lines of his cheeks too flattened, the mouth too thin and restrained to qualify him in a beauty contest. He is, however, unquestionably a man of striking appearance.

Anyhow, in picking a man to run against Calvin Coolidge, it was not considered necessary to search for an Adonis. Strength and personality were much more desirable qualifications, and Davis supplies both of these in good measure.

In picking Gov. Charles Bryan of Nebraska, the Democrats added a touch of color that promises to brighten the campaign.

Charles, who for many years edited the publication of his famous and much-nominated brother, William Jennings, "The Commoner," has a shining bald head which he hides under a little black skull cap. Can't you just imagine what the Republican cartoonists will do to that?

Charles came to the convention and occupied a room at the Waldorf with his brother, Bill. He was not a delegate, and therefore kept off the floor of Madison Square Garden, but he spent much time in the run way under the speaking platform, listening to the proceedings and waiting for something to turn up. Perhaps the nomination was the reward for his patient persistence.

Other considerations than his persistence, however, had the deciding hand in placing him as second man on the ticket.

William Jennings Bryan is still a power in the party. Even his bitterest enemies admit that.

And in the speech by which he sought to break the deadlock after the first five days' balloting, Brother Bill enumerated half a dozen candidates whom he considered as good timber for the nomination. In this list he did not include Davis. Davis was frank to say to any one who asked, he considered too close to Wall street.

After Davis had been nominated, the question then came of picking a running mate that would hold Bryan—William Jennings Bryan—to the ticket.

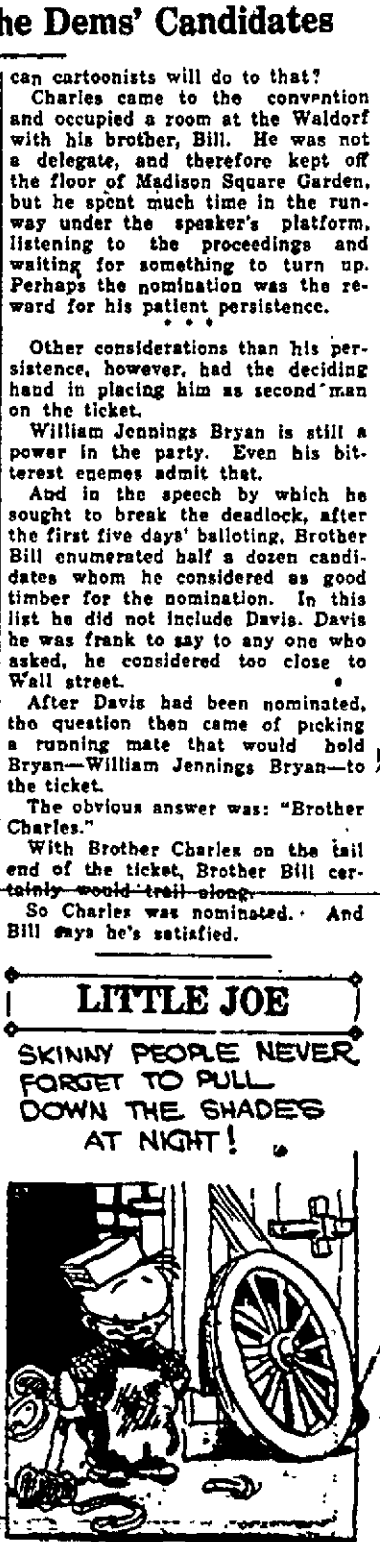

The obvious answer was: "Brother Charles."

With Brother Charles on the tail end of the ticket, Brother Bill certainly would trail along.

So Charles was nominated. And Bill says he's satisfied.

MANDAN NEWS

Belief Grows War Vet May Be Found Alive

That Harry Kidd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kidd of Mandan, mourned as dead since 1918 when he was reported to have been killed while serving as a runner at the front, has been in hospitals in Tacoma and vicinity for two years, is the belief now of members of his family.

A man declaring he was Harry Kidd called early in June in Seattle at the residence where he had formerly lived with an aunt and uncle, and which the latter had leased. The tenant informed his brother George Kidd of the strange call and the latter in the real estate business in Seattle, launched a search in which police, salvation army and other agencies joined. But "Harry" could not be found.

His story at the time, was that he had been in a prison camp for four years.

Now Mr. and Mrs. Kidd are in receipt of a letter from a niece who joined in the investigation and search, in which belief is expressed that the world war veteran is alive. Entered under another name he was a patient in the Tacoma hospital, transferred to the City Hospital and then to the army hospital at American Lake. His description tallies perfectly with the Mandan young man. Physicians familiar with the condition of the missing veteran believed to be Kidd declared he was perfectly fit physically to work although suffering from shell shock and said that he might be suffering from aphasia, loss of memory, although otherwise mentally normal.

George Kidd has advised his parents that he found one clue which led him to believe the missing man had gone south and Mrs. Kidd is confident that Harry will yet be found.

MAYOR GETS IT!

Even Mayor Magee was not immune from the wholesale vaccination campaign which is under way here in getting a "shot" in the arm from Dr. Josephson, a city nurse.

There's a lot of money lying around this town waiting for a good man to pick it up," he said.

"Show it to me," I suggested.

"Suppose I do. Have you got nerve enough to grab it?" he demanded.

I reached for another cigaret, then drew back my hand empty. The conversation had taken a turn that mystified me. I was not sure that I wished to place myself under further obligation to my host.

"I don't think I understand," I told him.

He put his hand into a pocket and withdrew it. "I don't think that ever in my life I had seen so much actual cash as he placed on a table beside him. Certainly there must have been fifteen or twenty thousand-dollar bills, and as many more of lesser denominations ranging from fifty to five hundred."

"Understand those?" He pointed to the wad of bills.

I managed to lift my eyes from the money and looked at him.

"Go on," I said again.

"I'm in business," he said slowly. "It's a new business. And there's lots of money in it. People don't loathe their shirts simply because other people have a few."

"Bootlegging?" I suggested.

"Bright boy," he said. "Other things, too."

Hillside plowing is just as easy as level land for Miss Mary Shannon of Becket, Mass. Her 650-acre farm is on a steep slope, yet she has made a success of it with the aid of her tractor. She's a college graduate and has won many ribbons for her exhibitions of Holsteins.

Why, Tag, there aren't any fish in that old pail!

YES, THERE ARE, POP.

I JUST EMPTIED A CAN OF SARDINES IN IT!!

BEGIN HERE TODAY

John Ainsley, a man of education and breeding, whose war wounds left him unfit for manual labor, returns hungry to his shabby lodging house. To pay his landlady the week's rent for his room—one dollar—he is compelled to pawn an ivory miniature of his mother. At the pawnshop he is puzzled at the sight of a prosperous-looking, fur-collared man dickering with the broker.

After leaving the shop, Ainsley hurries to a little restaurant to get food. He is stopped in the entrance by the fur-collared individual, is taken to the man's home, and is relieved with hot soup. As he sits, Ainsley tries to take stock of his host and his surroundings.

NO GO ON WITH THE STORY

The man unquestionably was not a gentleman. His clothing was too garish, his jewelry too blatant. His speech too, was coarse and sloven, and he used phrases that betokened an unfamiliarity with polite speech. His apartment, moreover, was furnished badly. The pictures on the wall clashed violently with the furnishings, and he had set him down immediately as a nonentity, possibly one of the recent species of profiteers, but for a furtiveness of manner. Moreover, I had first seen him in a pawnshop.

Why had he followed me? What was he? Well, I could wait for the answer. And so, forcing myself to be slow, to chew each morsel carefully, I waited for him to direct the conversation, for I said practically nothing. He delivered a monologue, based for the most part on places he had visited, events mostly of a sporting nature, which he had witnessed. I began to think that he was probably a gambler, perhaps a follower of the race-track.

Then, having decided that I had eaten all that it was well for me to take at this time, I followed his example and walked with him into the next room.

"Smoke?" he asked.

Perhaps I had suffered almost as much through the lack of food. Cigarettes had become a necessity, and I accepted the offer with gratefulness. With the first dizzying inhalation of the cigaret he gave me I felt my own man once more. I had been the sport of circumstances, bit of flotsam on the city's tide. Suddenly I felt master of my own destiny.

"Drink?" Cocktail? Highball? Champagne?" he asked.

I shook my head. "Never touch it," I said. "And I thought in these days no one but millionaires had such a variety."

"Who said I ain't a millionaire?" he demanded.

"I beg your pardon," said I, marveling at the queer vanity of him.

"It's all right," he said. "I suppose, having seen me talking to Weinberg, you thought I was busted."

"I didn't think anything about it," I replied.

He laughed in a peculiarly harsh, joyless tone. "I guess you were being thoughtful about anything. I took a look at you, and says I to myself: 'This baby's about due for the morgue's color.' I do look pretty badly."

I admitted. "And on top of what Weinberg had been telling you about me, it was easy to guess that I wasn't a millionaire."

His eyes, hard blue, narrowed. "You see things don't you? Tumbled right off to Weinberg wishing me up about you, eh? Well, I knew right off that you were no boob. I thought you were the lad I needed; now know it. Like a little dough?"

I laughed. Odd, how a few ounces of food could make a whole world.

"What do you think?" I countered. "I'd say that you were ready to do anything to make a stake," he said.

"Almost anything," I amended.

"Fussy?" he asked.

"I'm a gentleman," I told him. The words sounded grandiloquent, absurd.

"Yes, I suspected as much," said my host. "Starvation hurts a gentleman's insides just like it does an ordinary roughneck's, don't it? Are you proud?"

"Suppose you explain," I suggested.

"Make it snappy, eh? All right, I will. I take it you have no friends in particular. You wouldn't be starving if you had. Am I right?"

"Go on," I said.

"If you got a chance to make money, real money, important money, you'd jump at it. Am I right?"

"Go on some more. You interest me," I smiled.

"There's a lot of money lying around this town waiting for a good man to pick it up," he said.

"Show it to me," I suggested.

"Suppose I do. Have you got nerve enough to grab it?" he demanded.

I reached for another cigaret, then drew back my hand empty. The conversation had taken a turn that mystified me. I was not sure that I wished to place myself under further obligation to my host.

TOURISTS PAY NOW

Levuka, Fiji Islands, July 24.—Tourists must pay now to see the make-meke, native dance of the shiny-skinned Fijians. The natives have become so religious and deeply reverent that it is almost impossible to draw them into their old barbaric dances. When they do dance, it is for the church. All proceeds are turned over to the Sunday schools.

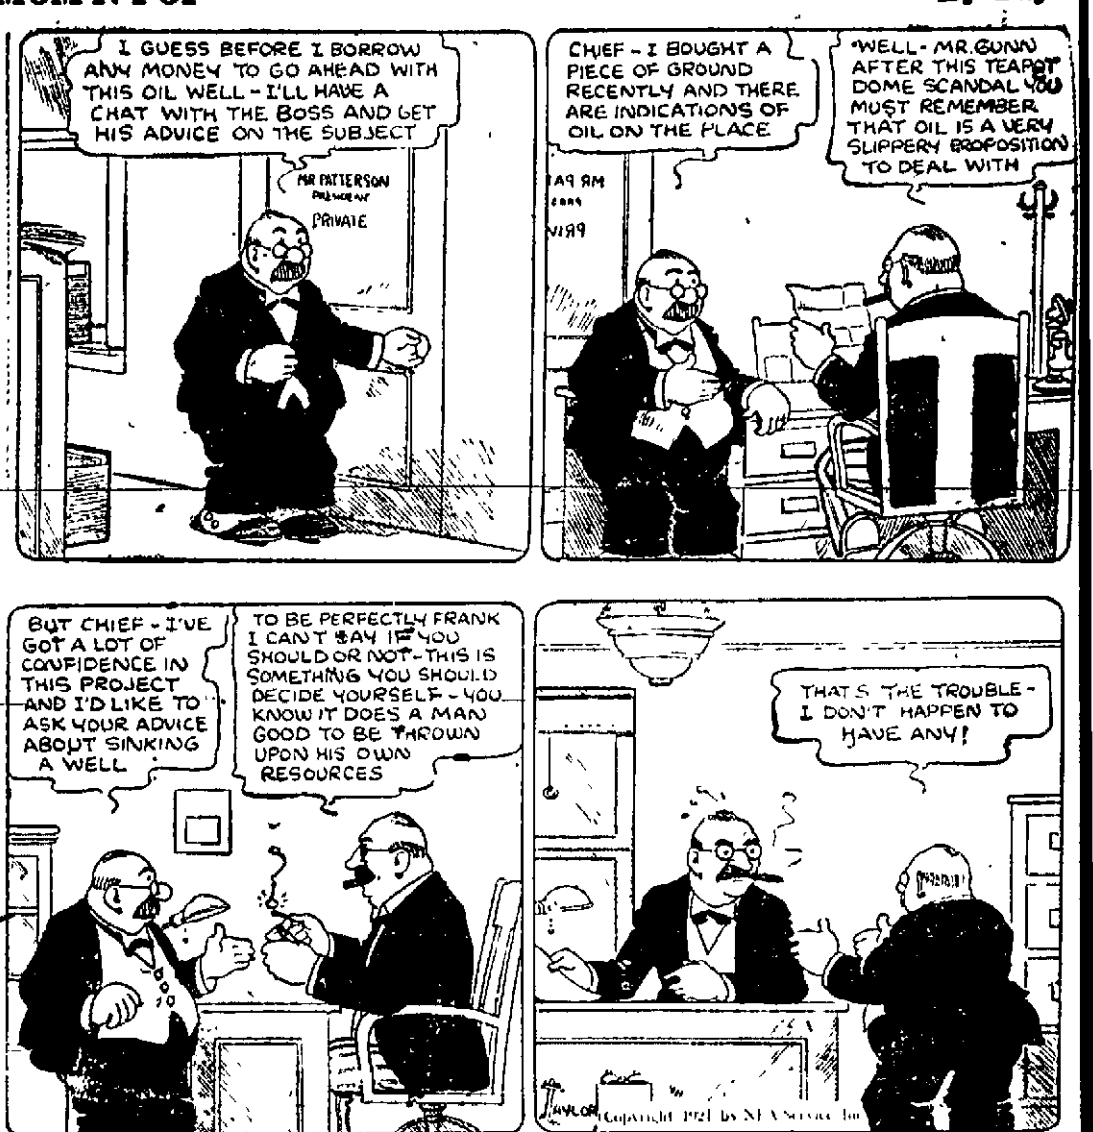

SCHOLASTIC RECORD

Eight of his 10 children have graduated from Tarkio College and the other two are enrolled there as students. Two of the three sons served in World War. One son is a chemist and another is studying for the law.

To pay his landlady the week's rent for his room—one dollar—he is compelled to pawn an ivory miniature of his mother. At the pawnshop he is puzzled at the sight of a prosperous-looking, fur-collared man dickering with the broker.

After leaving the shop, Ainsley hurries to a little restaurant to get food. He is stopped in the entrance by the fur-collared individual, is taken to the man's home and is revived with hot soup. As he eats, Ainsley tries to take stock of his host and his surroundings.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
The man unquestionably was not a gentleman. His clothing was too garish, his jewelry too blatant. His speech too, was coarse and slovenly and he used phrases that betokened an unfamiliarity with polite speech. His apartment, moreover, was furnished badly. The pictures on the walls clashed violently with the furnishings immediately above them. A man of the recent species of profiteers, but for a furtiveness of manner. Moreover, I had first seen him in a pawnshop.

Why had he followed me? What was he? Well, I could wait for the answer. And so, forcing myself to be slow, to chew each word carefully, I waited for him to direct the conversation, for I said practically nothing. He delivered a monologue, based for the most part on places he had visited, events, mostly of a sporting nature, which he had witnessed. I began to think that he was probably a gambler, perhaps a follower of the race-track.

Then, having decided that I had taken all that was well for me to take at this time, I followed his example and walked with him into the next room.

"Smoke?" he asked.
Perhaps I had suffered almost as much through the lack of food. Certainly his question aroused memories of sufferings that had seemed unbearable. With the first dizzying notion of the cigarette he gave me, I felt my own manhood revive. I had been the sport of circumstances, bit of flotsam on the city's tide. Suddenly I felt master of my own destiny.

"Drink? Cocktail? Highball? Champagne?" he asked.
I shook my head. "Never touch it," I said. "And I thought in these days no one but millionaires had such a variety."

"Who said I ain't a millionaire?" he demanded.
"I beg your pardon," said I, marveling at the queer vanity of him.

"It's all right," he said. "I suppose, having seen me talking, I could still keep my word to Mrs. Gannon. I did. Then, with two dollars left of the five that I had received from Weinberg, I climbed more easily this time than last, to my room."

I sat down upon the bed and reviewed the last hour. And as I thought of how a cheap criminal had carried me to his lodgings, fed me, patronized me and insulted me, I was sick with shame. A man of my education and breeding, who had sunk so low in the social scale that he was open to such an insult, who was as unable to cope with the elementary facts of life as I was, was unfit to live.

It was a harsh judgment which I rendered against myself, but a just one. Incompetents clutter up the path of progress. Society, in making civilized life difficult for the incompetent, is enacting natural decrees; for nature, before society began, destroyed the incompetent. A sudden determination came to me. I had parted with the last possession that had a marketable value. Of course, I had my overcoat, but freezing was not preferable to starvation.

But why starve or freeze when there was an easy alternative? That is, the alternative would be easy if I were in full possession of my faculties. But if I became hungry to the point of starvation, my faculties would be impaired, my will be gone. I could see myself begging of passers-by, even, possibly, rummaging in refuse-pails for a bone or a crust, like any famished dog.

The alternative, of swift and simple self-destruction, was infinitely preferable to such degradation. I would eat again—already my stomach cried for more food, so long had I gone hungry—then walk to the waterfront and rid society of one of its unfit.

HILLSIDE EASY

Hillside plowing is just as easy as level land for Miss Mary Shannon of Becket, Mass. Her 650-acre farm is on a steep slope, yet she has made a success of it with the aid of her tractor. She's a college graduate and has won many ribbons for her exhibitions of Holsteins.

TOURISTS PAY NOW

Levuka, Fiji Islands, July 24.—Tourists must pay now to see the meke-meke, native dance of the shaggy-skinned Fijians. The natives have become so religious and deeply reverent that it is almost impossible to draw them into their old barbaric dances. When they do dance, it is for the church. All proceeds are turned over to the Sunday schools.

SCHOLASTIC RECORD

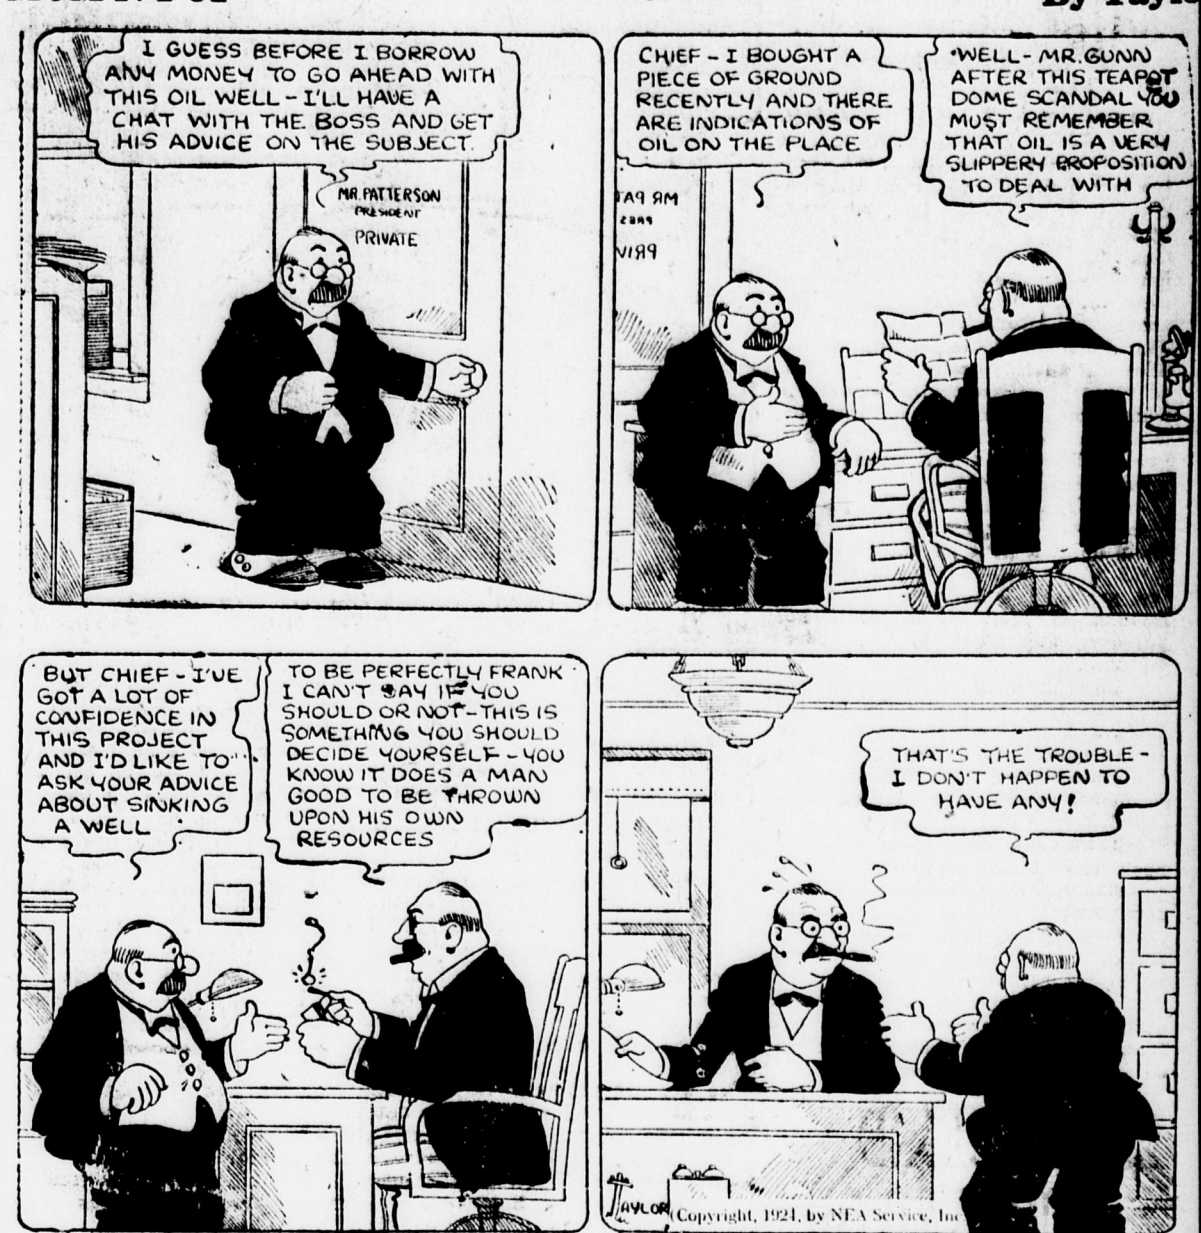

Tarkio, Mo., July 24.—The family of J. F. Withrow of Tarkio has set up one of the most remarkable scholastic records in Missouri. Eleven of his 10 children have graduated from Tarkio College and the other two are enrolled there as students. Two of the three sons served in the World War. One son is a minister and another is studying for the same work.

GEORGES AND GENE TUNNEY MEET TONIGHT

Frenchman and Light-Heavyweight Champion of United States to Clash

New York, July 24. (By the A. P.)—Georges Carpentier and Gene Tunney are due to appear at the New York State Athletic Commission office at 2 o'clock this afternoon to be weighed in for their 15-round bout at the Polo Grounds tonight. At the conclusion of the weighing, both boxers will be weighed on a special scale which will show the 15-pound limit.

The main bout, under the New York boxing regulations, must begin not later than 9 o'clock Eastern Standard Time. The preliminaries are scheduled for 7:15.

In challenging Tunney for the American light-heavyweight title, Carpentier will meet a fighter who surpasses him in height and reach. Tunney will rely on his powerful left to stop the aggressive Frenchman while Carpentier will bank on his effective right to put the champion out of the running.

YANKEES BACK IN FIRST PLACE

Ruth's Home Run Gives 4 to 3 Victory Over Detroit

Chicago, July 24.—Babe Ruth helped the New York Yankees back into the American League leadership yesterday afternoon with a home run in the 11th inning and gave the Yankees a 4 to 3 victory. It accidentally was Ruth's 29th of the season.

Washington beat Chicago, 4 to 2, when Red Faber, who has been attempting a come-back, failed to hold the Senators. Ten pitchers were used in a game in which Boston beat Cleveland 16 to 12. Urban Shocker held Philadelphia safe while St. Louis batted hard to a 7 to 0 win.

In the Nationals, New York beat the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 1, evening up the series. McQuillan held Cincinnati to three hits. Chicago drove Jess Barnes off the mound and beat Boston, 5 to 2. Brooklyn won a 10-inning game from Pittsburgh, 4 to 3. Zack Wheat got five hits in five times at the plate, and Fournier hit his 22nd home run.

Philadelphia beat St. Louis 8 to 5 in a game featured only by home runs by Cy Williams and Rogers Hornsby.

PICK AMERICA TO LAND FOURTH CUP

BY JOE WILLIAMS

England has picked the team of amateur golfers which will represent her in the fourth renewal of the Walker cup matches at Garden City, New York, Sept. 12 and 13.

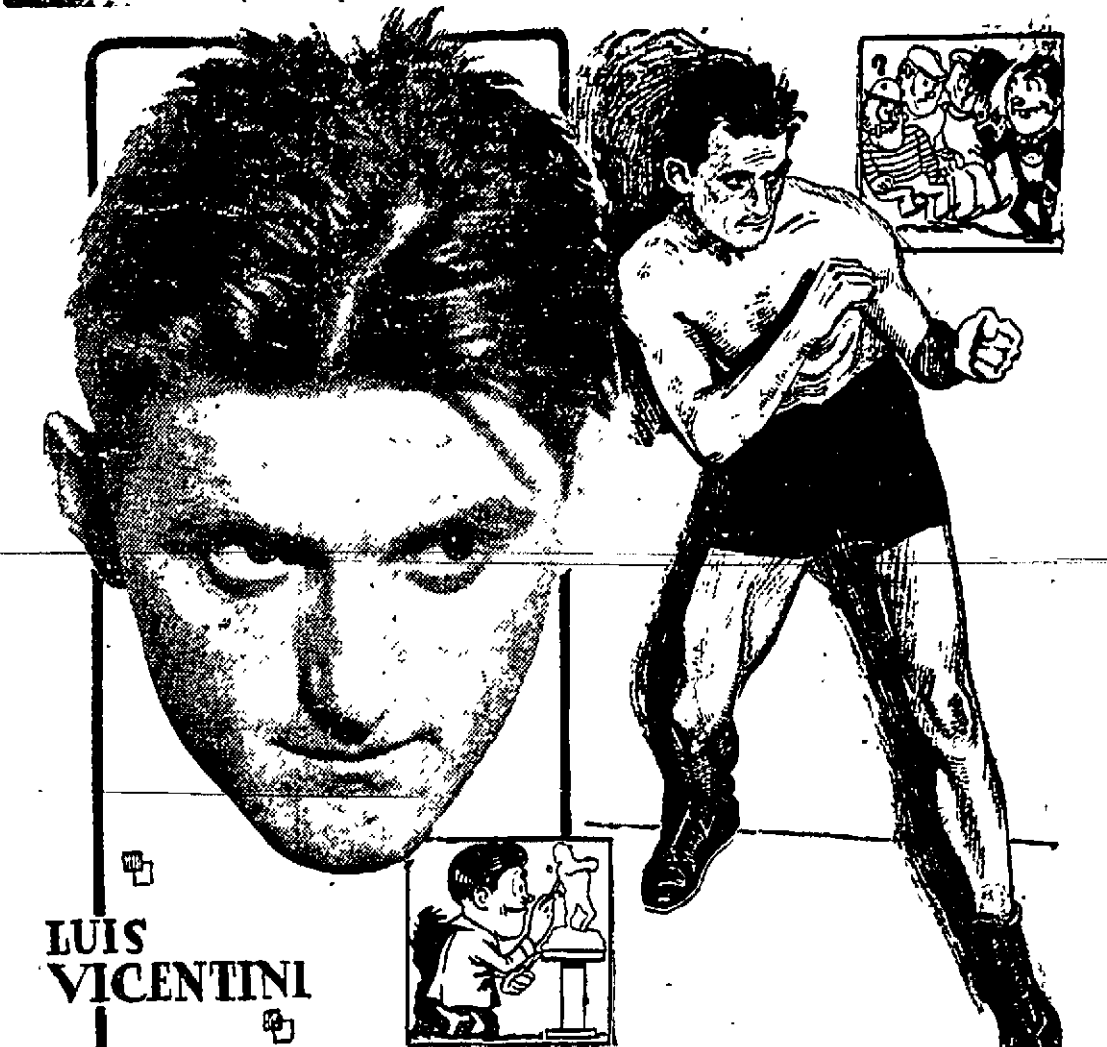

The team is hardly representative of the complete golfing strength of that country. For instance, E. W. Holderness, present champion, is not to make the trip. Nor is Roger Wethered, who tied with Jack Hutchison in the British open at St. Andrews in 1921, coming. America would be handicapped in the same degree if Jones and Olinet were suddenly to be left to the team.

However, Cyril James Hastings, who is leading the laydown Britishers, makes a note of military opinion and forecasts a tight and gay battle.

VICENTINI NEXT LIGHTWEIGHT KING?

"Mongrel" Right Hand May Lead South American to Leonard's Title

BY JOE WILLIAMS

New York, July 24. A young, sharp-eyed Chilean, who started out to be a sculptor and later worked his way into the films as a boxing Desmond in his native Santiago, is the newest wow in cauliflowering.

Mr. Luis Vicentini, by his recent feat of reducing the good Rocky Kansas to a state of clammy submission in 11 rounds, has leaped blithely over the domes of Dundee, Moran, Barbarian, White and Ziva, the foremost lightweight challenger in the ring.

Mr. Vicentini has something most of the other contenders lack, a destructive punch. White can punch but he is hopelessly old and worn. Mr. Vicentini is replete with youth and all the essentials that accompany it.

Crude, But He Wins

Vicentini's punch is somewhat of a novelty, if you are interested in technique. It is a right hander but it is as different from the orthodox right-hand punch as a squirrel bark is from a mother's lullaby. It suggests at once the swinging effect

Leroy Again Beats Tillman

Milbank, S. D., July 24.—Russie Leroy, Fargo welterweight, easily outpointed Johnny Tillman, of Minneapolis, in 10 rounds on the headliner of the American Legion boxing card here last night.

Billy Petrolle, lightweight from Fargo, won the referee's decision over Pete Campi, Minneapolis, in eight rounds.

Fred Fleming, Milbank heavy-weight, made "Doc" Olson of Bristol quit in the third round of their scheduled six round bout.

Johby French, of Webster, beat Kil Brokaw, of Britton, in four rounds. They are lightweight.

Billy Evans Says

If a ball player accepts 10 chances in the field without an error, his work is generally regarded as one of the features of the game.

Often, if he makes three or four sensational plays, only to fall down on an easy chance that plays no part in the result, he is acclaimed one of the fielding heroes of the day.

What about the umpire who in the course of the game must make judgments from 50 to 150 rulings. Each ruling is a play from the viewpoint of the umpire.

Sitting on the New York bench the other day, prior to starting a game, Everett Scott, holder of the endurance record for continuous play, remarked to me:

"How many plate decisions do you umpires figure you can miss and still call it a good day?"

The query caused me to smile. Scott smiled as he put it to me.

"That's rather personal," I answered, "but one of our umpires figures that it is 12 either way."

"What does he mean by that either way stuff?" asked Scott.

I then proceeded to explain that during the course of a game 12 pitches ruled balls were so close they might have been called strikes. Perhaps such a ruling would have been more accurate. Likewise, 12 pitches ruled strikes might be considered balls by the team at bat.

Scott, who has a keen sense of humor, listened intently to my explanation of the 12 either way stuff and then replied:

"That makes 24 it's possible to have kicked and still call it a good day. I am pretty sure I know the name of that umpire."

"How so?" I asked.

"Because he usually insists on taking his full quota," was the reply.

Further discussion of the subject was impossible, as the bell rang to start the game.

It is a peculiar fact, however, that very often an umpire by missing one ball can turn a good day's work into failure.

Often I have gone for eight innings without having a ball questioned. Then in the ninth an either way ball would cause a hit. A rally by the team at bat would decide

The Man Whom the Years Forgot

He ran a successful business 20 years ago.

He had built up this business by hard personal effort.

Those who dealt with him knew that he could be relied upon, and anything which he sold was well worth the money.

And he had a fine group of customers. But customers change. Some of them die. Some go away. Some get restless and turn to competitors.

So it was with his customers. And not enough new ones came to take their place.

This man worked harder. He studied his products. He kept them up to date. In many ways he was the best posted man in his line of business.

Except for one thing—and on that one thing his competitors passed him. He did not keep in touch with old customers and attract new ones with sufficient energy.

He believed the old "mouse trap" saying, that people would beat a path to his door.

But competitors set up along the beaten path, and the customers were diverted.

What this man forgot was printing—and so the years forgot him.

He forgot to study the progress made in merchandising. He failed to see or find out the methods used by others in his same line of business, who were continually in communication with his customers, telling them the advantages of other merchandise, building confidence in other business institutions, winning away the people who had made this one business successful 20 years ago.

This is not the story of any one business. It is the story of scores of businesses, once successful, but today disappeared or disappearing from the field.

Don't let anyone forget your business. Keep in touch with your present market, and open a larger and larger market by using printing. We'll gladly show you examples of how many others are doing it. Call on us.

GRAIN MERGER PLAN DECLINED BY CO-OP BODY

Will Not Market Grain
Through Merger of Big
Firms, Is Sentiment

Chicago, July 24.—That the contemplated merger of five of the largest grain elevator companies in the country is "simply a combination of grain trade interests and not in any sense of the word a cooperative marketing association of farmers," was the opinion voiced yesterday by the conference of wheat growers here. The conference, called by Frank O. Lowden, chairman of the National Wheat Growers' advisory committee, included representatives of the state-wide wheat pools of Oklahoma, Texas, Indiana and North Dakota and a number of leaders in the national cooperative movement.

Representatives of all the pooling associations present stated that in their opinion none of the state-wide wheat pools would join any grain through the proposed merger and that the farmers in their states would not purchase any stock in the undertaking.

A plan for the formation of a central exchange to handle the several pools' output of wheat was prepared at the meeting and was referred to the state associations for approval. Favorable action on the proposed national body, which will unify the activities of the state pools and will push the wheat pooling plan into other states than those where it is now supported by the farmers, is expected from many unattached organizations as well as from the four associations represented.

It was announced that the cooperative bodies represented at the conference will handle 50,000,000 bushels of this year's wheat crop.

LEADS BLIND HUSBAND OUT

Ira H. Foster, Injured Near Bismarck, Is Rescued

Minneapolis, July 24.—Leading her blind husband to safety when fire broke out in their home early today, Mrs. Ira H. Foster then ran back into the burning house, groped her way to the second floor and aroused her daughter and a roomer who were trapped by the flames. The three persons, escape cut-off, climbed out windows to a porch roof and were carried down by fire ladders. Flames destroyed the home with a loss of $5,000.

Mr. Foster was blinded in a dynamite explosion near Bismarck, North Dakota, ten years ago.

20 DIE IN MOVIE HOUSE

Trampled to Death After Blaze Arises

Vera Cruz, Mexico, July 24.—Twenty children were trampled to death and 17 persons were injured in the Estela Theater last night when the film of a moving picture caught fire and threw the spectators into a panic.

Those who were viewing the picture that was being thrown on the screen believed when the film exploded that the house had caught fire. A mad rush, especially from the galleries, which were filled with little children, resulted and many of them were trampled to death. The exact number of victims is still unknown.

Dodge Rises To Second Place In Production

In the Minneapolis Journal of July 15th appeared a small news item of only 5 or 6 lines in a rather obscure position and which would lead the casual observer to overlook the true significance and importance of this small paragraph, says M. B. Gilman, Dodge Brothers local dealer.

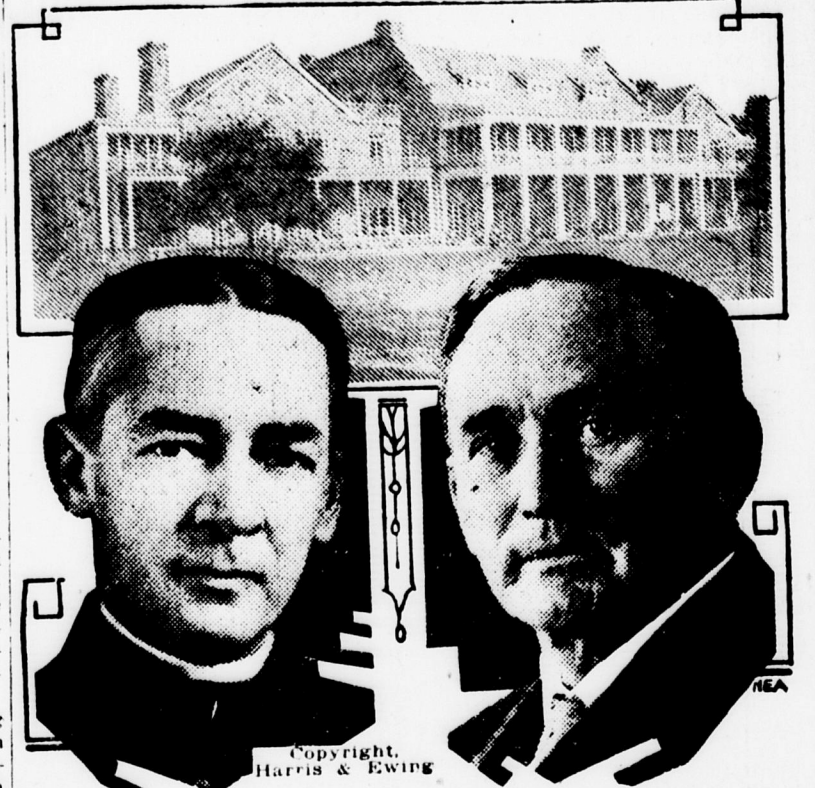

At first glance it might seem that the real importance of this news item is in the figures that 20,511 cars—an immense production when most factories are lowering their output, however the greatest importance in this paragraph is the fact that this places Dodge Brothers as the second largest producer of motor cars in the industry, being exceeded only by Ford.

This large production is regulated entirely by popular demand since Dodge Brothers each week have accurate figures from each dealer all over the country showing exactly how rapidly their cars are selling and exactly how small the visible supply of new Dodge Brothers cars really is. However when a city like Detroit, where every buyer has first hand knowledge of the manufacturing methods of leading factories, buys Dodge Brothers cars by 75 per cent this year, than it did in the same period last year, it really is not surprising that Dodge Brothers should reach second place in the great automobile industry, and yet at the same time there should be a shortage of Dodge Brothers motor cars.

SENATOR WOULDN'T RESIGN, SO CLUB EXPELS HIM

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer
Washington, July 24.—Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas didn't come so very far from being nominated for president of the United States on the Democratic ticket—

But that fact made little difference with the board of governors of the exclusive Chevy Chase Country Club here.

For the board, after hearing charges another member brought against the senator, expelled him from the club without the slightest hesitation.

He was dropped from its rolls because he hit a fellow in the eye during a little quarrel over a golf game. The Chevy Chase Club included a dozen and a third senators among its members before Robinson was thrown out. There was some talk at first that all would resign in a body, by way of protest against one of their number's elimination. But it seems otherwise. The senatorial members have taken the club governors' action very quietly.

WASHINGTON OVERLY BUSY ENTERTAINING TOURISTS

By Harry B. Hunt
NEA Service Writer
Washington, July 24.—Your, my and every American's Capital City is right in the height of its entertaining season.

And, to the casual observer, who has lived in Washington for a term of years, this season is the banner one for auto tourist parties.

On every road entering the capital, and from every nook and corner of the country, they come.

"Washington or bust!" some of the touring parties' banners read. They reach Washington, they see the sights, and they return home—busted.

But, in fairness to Washington, I might add that this all depends on the tourist himself. The city doesn't cost any more to see than any other city.

One of the most popular places spot to tourists is the home and burial place of George Washington, located in Fairfax county, Virginia, 15 miles below Washington. In 1856 the estate was purchased from the descendants of Washington for $200,000. This amount was raised by subscription, under the auspices of the "Ladies' Mount Vernon Association," and it now belongs to the nation.

There is a 25 cents admission fee which is used to pay for the upkeep of the property.

Arlington cemetery is seldom overlooked by the visitor. It is located across the Potomac from Washington and was formerly the home of Robert E. Lee. It was seized by the government during the Civil War and made the National Cemetery.

There are close to 19,000 graves on the grounds.

Ranking very high in visitor interest is the Lincoln Memorial, which was dedicated May 30, 1922. It cost $2,330,720.

The columns of the colonnade, 36 in number, are made of Colorado-Yule marble and are 44 feet high and 7 feet 4 inches in diameter at the base. The building is 122 feet high. The statue, without pedestal, is 21 feet high and weighs 150 tons. The figure of Lincoln is 19 feet from the top of the head to the sole of the foot. The head measures 3 feet in height. The statue is of Georgia marble and the pedestal and base of Tennessee marble. It took the sculptor four years to produce the statue.

There are numerous other places and monuments of interest in the Capital City, but the four mentioned above rank top notch. The visitor who misses any one of them hasn't seen Washington.

TEN PERSONS DIE AS TRAIN STRIKES TRUCK

Struck By Train

Oak Harbor, Ohio, July 24.—Ten persons were killed and 10 others were injured, some seriously, early last night, when a New York Central passenger train crashed into an automobile truck at a grade crossing outside this village.

There were 26 persons in the truck. They had been on a day's outing at Sand Beach, on Lake Erie, and were returning to their homes when the accident happened. It was 6:45 p. m. when the crash occurred.

The dead are: Mrs. Bern Cook, 40; Mrs. Mabel Wold, 38; Forest Croninger, 14; Violet Croninger, 10; Olga Pratt, 17; Milan Schaaf, 12; Heldon Huffman, 14; Elda Olds, 14; and Geraldine Schimf, 14, all of Attica, Ohio, and George Spangler, 30, Willard, Ohio, driver of the truck.

Witnesses of the accident declared that the driver of the car had stopped the machine at the railroad crossing, gone ahead to scan the tracks and apparently had failed to see the approaching train. He is said to have gotten back into the truck and driven on the track directly ahead of the train, which was bound for Toledo from Cleveland.

ALL SET TO BROADCAST PHOTOS!

INVENTOR'S APPARATUS ON MARKET

By NEA Service
Washington, July 24.—Transmission of pictures by radio, long the subject of world-wide discussion and experiment, is at last ready for practical use.

Initial installations are now being made and soon the whole United States, as well as other countries, is expected to be covered with a network of radio photo transmitting and receiving apparatus.

A company has already been formed here for the purpose. It establishes and operates transmitting equipment, manufactures and leases receiving apparatus, and is continuing research work for perfection of the machinery. Basic patents have already been issued and behind this tremendous advance in the history of wireless is C. Francis Jenkins, the inventor, who is as famous in the motion picture field as he is in the radio field. He has the distinction of being accredited the inventor of the first motion picture projector.

The Apparatus
For the last few years it has been known that Jenkins had been working on a method of sending pictures by radio. Others, too, have been busy with the same idea, but Jenkins' machine is unique.

The basis of the apparatus is a prismatic ring, or disc, a new optical shape in glass, which Jenkins himself designed and can make only by the use of special apparatus. In the sending apparatus, four prismatic rings are combined, revolving across a light beam directed through a photo negative. These rings slice the rays into strips and convert the light valves into electrical values. The electrical values are then sent out into space on radio carrier waves, just as sound is transmitted. At the receiving end, these electrical waves are caught, converted into light and recorded on a photo negative.

Thus one broadcasting station can transmit a photograph to as many points as have the required receiving apparatus, powerful enough to detect the wave of the broadcaster. In this, the photo broadcasting is similar to sound broadcasting, the distance of transmission being dependent on the power of the station and the strength of the receiving set.

Radio Vision Ahead
Jenkins expects to go even further. He forecasts the coming of radio vision and radio movies within a few years. In his laboratory here, five youths are helping him perfect these wonders. Combined with audio-radio, Jenkins sees the new generation listening and seeing plays and events enacted far away.

For the present, the Jenkins installation for broadcasting pictures by radio includes the transmission of messages, contracts and news.

NEW RUSSIAN POLICY AGREED ON BY JAPAN

Expected to Lead to Recognition of Soviet Russia in Near Future

Tokio, July 24, (By the A. P.)—A new policy toward Russia on which it is believed the government would be willing to grant recognition to the Soviet government was adopted by the cabinet at an extraordinary session today.

The new policy was presented by the foreign minister, Baron Shidehara, and is generally regarded as fixing Japan's terms toward Russia and as making agreement between the countries, looking to resumption of diplomatic relations easier.

While officials decline to discuss the new policy, the vernacular newspapers agree on its main outlines. They declare that it means "concessions" to Russia.

REHEARING IS SOUGHT

Higginbotham, the Whipping
Boss, Files For New Trial

Grand Forks, N. D., July 24.—Petition for a rehearing of the Walter Higginbotham case in which the Florida supreme court set aside the conviction of Higginbotham, for second degree murder following the death of Martin Tabert, of Munich, in a Florida convict camp has been filed according to G. Grimson, state's attorney of Cavalier county, who represented the state of North Dakota in the original trial. Higginbotham's conviction was set aside by the Florida supreme court as a result of transfer of trial from the county in which the convict camp of which Higginbotham was whipping boss, and at which Tabert was confined was located.
